FARLEY SPEAKS WITH LANDON AT LINCOLN DINNER

Laud Leadership of War President.

STORIES ABOUT LINCOLN.

The final article in Philip Kinsley's series on midwestern scenes associated with Abraham Lincoln is on page 15. Maps locating homes and points of activity in the emancipator's life are on the back page. On page 6 is an article on the only biography of Lincoln that was authorized and read by him.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—Alfred M. Landon, the Republican, and James A. Farley, the Democrat, found common ground here tonight in extoling Abraham Lincoln on the eve of the 131st anniversary of the emancipator's birth.

By coincidence both their addresses, which were delivered in a crowded auditorium, were devoted, in part, to an estimate of Lincoln as a politician.

Former Gov. Landon, whose main thesis was a contrast of Lincoln with Dictators Hitler and Stalin, characterized the civil war President as "a practical politician as well as a statesman," with a wide experience in the courts and with county and local governments, whereas Hitler's and Stalin's "practical political experience has been only as conspirators."

Shapes Fate of Nation.

As a politician, Lincoln acquired an "accurate understanding and handling of men that enabled him to shape the fate of the nation he served," Landon said. On the other hand, "Stalin and Hitler kill off merit when it fails to 'yes' them." He said that Stalin and Hitler symbolize to the vast majority of this country "the cruel, intolerant, lawless, treacherous state."

"They are contemptuous of man's right to worship God," he said. "They disregard and ridicule the morality of individual freedom. The ideas represented by them have meant, and mean now, to many millions death by starvation, death by sword, death in concentration camps.

Forced to Die for Stalin.

"Hitler and Stalin force the state to live and die for them. Lincoln lived and died for the state. In Lincoln's life we can read one of the greatest pages of human development. That page is proof of the force of exalted, passionate, enthusiastic conviction.

"Centuries of tyranny ended at the hands of this practical idealist, who could write poetry in prose. He succeeded in his mission because he combined the practical politician with the vision of a poet—the vision of a poet with the wisdom of a statesman."

Farley Lauds Lincoln's Wisdom.

Postmaster General Farley said: "Lincoln, being a first class political leader, had the wisdom to call in and consult all sorts and kinds of men. Again, with fine political instinct, he frequently allowed his visitors to believe that they were really initiating the policy of the country. More than one man of the period published his diary or papers, and showed that he was laboring under the delusion that he, and not Mr. Lincoln, carried off many of Lincoln's best strokes.

"Only later, as the whole truth comes out, have we discovered that it was Lincoln who made the policy, tho he was humble enough and adroit enough to allow lesser men to believe they were running the government.

Political Moves Save Nation.

"Politics, as practiced by Lincoln, was a means by which people are brought to agree on a line of action; brought to agree in numbers great enough so that the policy can be carried out.

"He was no stranger to all of the means that were used at the time. They were, in fact, much the same means as those which are used today. Politics has not changed in the past 80 years except that, I really believe, it is cleaner and less devious than it was then."

Farley said that thru Lincoln's political moves, "the union was saved, with God's help, for all time."

"But the real authors of its salvation," he continued, "were the great spirits, north and south, who followed Lincoln's plan, who cast hatreds aside, and in Lincoln's sympathetic spirit attempted to make

HIS SOUL GOES MARCHING ON

Belfast Police Fight Mob of I. R. A. 2 Hours

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Ulster police were coöperating with troops tonight in a hunt for Irish Republican Army raiders who, according to British press reports from Belfast, swooped down on a British army camp at Ballykinlar in County Down, kidnapped a soldier and got away with a haul of rifles.

The coup was carried out in last night's blackout and was followed by reports of riots and clashes between police and I. R. A. sympathizers in Belfast this afternoon. Armored trucks rumbled thru the streets as policemen with drawn clubs charged a score of times to disperse 2,000 demonstrators. More than 20, including a girl, were arrested. Scores of minor injuries were inflicted.

Rioting Follows Mourning.

The disorders broke out after a period of so-called silent mourning for two young Irishmen, James Richards and Peter Barnes, who were hanged in Birmingham last Wednesday for alleged complicity in a Coventry bombing on Aug. 25 in which five persons were killed.

During the public mourning the I. R. A. sympathizers wore black rosettes and crêpe armlets, drew window blinds, and gathered in silent groups from 1 to 2 p. m.

The rioting broke out when they attempted to hold a meeting in defiances of a ban imposed by Home Minister Sir Dawson Bates. Two thousand persons who appeared in Smithfield square, near the center of the city, found police already assembled. The crowd, kept on the move, formed a procession and marched to Peel street, about a mile away.

Battle for Two Hours.

There a speaker got on a platform and attempted to harangue the crowd. Police charged them from all sides and the demonstrators scattered to the side streets, yelling party slogans and hurling stones, bottles, and brickbats at the officers. Two hours of skirmishing took place before the police charges scattered the crowd.

Notices banning meetings were torn down in Armagh and defiant crowds had to be dispersed by police in armored cars. All police leaves thruout Ulster were canceled today in anticipation of trouble.

Reports reaching London tonight traced a parallel between the I. R. A. raid on Ballykinlar and the raid on an Irish army arsenal in Phoenix park in Dublin in December. One report put the arms seizure at 100 rifles and a number of Bren machine guns, but authorities insisted only 30 rifles were stolen.

The raiders apparently cut their way thru barbed wire entanglements to reach a storeroom. They were reported to have been detected by a soldier while they were loading the rifles into an automobile. The soldier was gagged and bound and tossed into the car.

The raiders drove three hours thru the blackout, changing cars twice, and then left the soldier in Shankill road in Belfast with his arms still tied.

Military and police guards were placed on all roads within 20 miles of the army camp and all roads to Belfast were watched. House to house police raids were carried out in Belfast today, but no trace of the rifles was found.

Irish Soldiers Wounded.

CORK, Ireland, Feb. 11 (AP).—Two sergeants of the Irish army were severely wounded today when several revolver shots were fired in their barracks here. No explanation of the firing was given immediately. A private was arrested.

FLAMES ROAR THRU INTERIOR OF SCHOOL ON SOUTHWEST SIDE

A fire which spread swiftly and defied the efforts of 135 firemen burned out the interior of the old Alice L. Barnard school at 10354 Charles street, in the Beverly Hills district, last night. Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan estimated the damage at $150,000.

When the first alarm was turned in a fire company located only a block away sped to the scene, but the blaze, which started in the basement, already had gained tremendous headway. Extra alarms up to a 5-11 were turned in, calling out 48 pieces of apparatus. The flames ate thru the three floors of the building and part of the roof before they were brought under control. More than 5,000 spectators gathered.

Firemen Joseph Curtin, Miles D'Arcy, and Charles Budd were injured fighting the fire. Curtin, of Truck 27, suffered two rib fractures when he fell, and is in the Little Company of Mary hospital. Budd and D'Arcy suffered minor cuts.

The Barnard school is an experimental unit specializing in advanced teaching techniques. It has 450 pupils. The main building was erected in 1893. An annex was added in 1928.

5 Million Britons Bumped and Bruised in Blackouts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 11.—About 5,000,000 adults in Britain have been injured since nightly blackouts were decreed early last September, according to a survey carried out by the British Institute of Public Opinion. Most of the 33,000 injured nightly suffer only bumps and bruises. In the first three months of the war, 2,133 persons were killed on the roads during blackouts.

Gov. General Tweedsmuir Dies from Fall

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 11 (AP).—Lord Tweedsmuir, 64 years old, governor general of Canada since 1935 and a noted author who had held several important posts in the British empire, died here tonight, less than a week after suffering a concussion at his official residence in Ottawa.

Lord Tweedsmuir.

His death came a short while after he was operated on for the third time.

Lord Tweedsmuir was the first representative of the king to die in office since formation of the Canadian confederacy.

After his fall last Tuesday at the governor's quarters in Ottawa, his condition grew steadily worse. He was operated on in Ottawa Friday morning and was rushed here that afternoon for a second operation. He had made progress, but today suffered a relapse.

He was given blood transfusions both before and after the four hour operation at Montreal Neurological institute today. When it was over his doctors said he "had stood the procedure well."

Long in Ill Health.

Lord Tweedsmuir, whose last public appearance was at the brief session of the Canadian parliament last month, had been in ill health for some time.

Lady Tweedsmuir and their son were at the hospital when he died. The body will be taken to Ottawa tomorrow. A state funeral will be held there on Wednesday.

Officials said burial would be in Great Britain.

Pending appointment of a successor, the governor general's duties will be taken over by the chief justice of Canada, Sir Lyman Duff.

Born in Scotland.

Lord Elgin has been mentioned in recent London reports as a possible successor. He is the grandson of the eighth earl of the line, who was once a representative of the king in Canada, and is active in military, church, and civil life.

Lord Tweedsmuir [John Buchan] was born at Perth, Scotland, on Aug.

ROOSEVELT DIG AT REDS PERILS PEACE PROJECT

Predict Welles Can't Sway Dictators.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—While endeavoring to rid himself of the taint of communism President Roosevelt probably has torpedoed his latest project to bring peace to warring Europe, according to a widely held view in official Washington.

To demonstrate that he holds no brief for communism the President yesterday in a speech spanked the American Youth congress for tolerating tenderness for soviet Russia, denounced the Stalin dictatorship, and espoused the cause of Finland—nonmilitarily.

He also extended his denunciation directly to the Hitler dictatorship in Germany and indirectly to the Mussolini dictatorship in Italy, to both of which he is sending Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles to explore the possibilities of restoring peace to Europe.

Predict Courteous Reception.

Mr. Roosevelt thus gave new evidence that his interest in his peace drive is not that of a neutral in the European conflict, but of a partisan of Great Britain and France.

Hence, there is a widespread impression among officials here that the President has spiked his own guns in his peace offensive, unless the only real purpose of that maneuver is the promotion of his third term candidacy. Mr. Welles, it is believed, will be received courteously in Berlin and Rome, but with the suspicion attaching to the emissary of a ruler committed to the cause of the enemy. Washington will be surprised if he obtains in those quarters any encouragement for Mr. Roosevelt to undertake mediation.

Offers Good Opportunity.

The meeting of the Youth congress, under fire for its hospitality to communist organizations, offered Mr. Roosevelt an appropriate opportunity for disavowing the high regard he once manifested for the bolsheviks. The only surprise here is that his recantation was so long delayed, for he is virtually the last of the Democratic left wingers to repudiate the communist régime and his position rapidly was becoming untenable.

Mr. Roosevelt and his administration have exercised a potent influence in behalf of the Russian soviets for seven years. He was so eager to recognize the soviet government in 1933 that he fell an easy prey to the wiles of Maxim Litvinov, then foreign commissar, who left the White House laughing and boasting that he got what he wanted by promising anything Mr. Roosevelt wanted. Two years later when he found that Josef Stalin had not kept the promises, Mr. Roosevelt merely slapped him on the wrist with a mild protest.

Communists Support Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for reelection in 1936 was supported by American communists and expressly blessed by Moscow. The President reciprocated by exerting his powerful influence for the protection of communists. He ceaselessly warred on and sought to discredit the Dies committee on un-American activities which was exposing the communist infiltration of his administration. Three times he sought to get the investigation killed by the house, and three times he was overwhelmingly defeated.

The Dies committee exposed violations of the law by communists, but the department of justice failed to prosecute. Communists lived charmed lives under the Roosevelt administration as they pursued their plottings against the American form of government.

Then came the promulgation of the alliance of communist Russia with Nazi Germany. That broke the spell, for Mr. Roosevelt and the communists abhorred the Nazis as much as they admired the soviets. When Stalin made common cause with Hitler he forfeited the support of all but a corporal's guard of American radicals.

Red Organizations Shaken.

Red and pinkish organizations in this country were shaken to their foundations by the apostasy of Stalin from what they had accepted as the communist creed. The American League for Peace and Democracy, which had been exposed by the Dies

MRS. ROOSEVELT DISAGREES WITH HER RED FRIENDS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11 [Special].—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight told the American Youth congress convention in session here that she knows all the arguments in favor of Russia's invasion of Finland—because she has heard them from her communist friends. But she said America's sympathies nevertheless should be for Finland.

The pronounced sentiment of the convention for communism was demonstrated earlier when the 2,000 delegates cheered Miss Frances Williams, administrative secretary, when she declared the youth congress would continue to welcome communists into its ranks. Their action made it evident that they would defy the oft repeated demands for the ousting of the young communist league and a group of alleged communist front organizations.

Mrs. Roosevelt's address marked the second day that the Roosevelt family has been in the headlines in the imbroglio over communism, aid to Finland, and the communistic tendencies of the youth congress.

Roosevelt Spanks Congress.

President Roosevelt gave the youth congress a verbal spanking at the White House Saturday for its espousal of the communist cause.

Tonight another Roosevelt, Archibald Jr., who is a kinsman of Mrs. Roosevelt and a grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, took a hand in the controversy.

Archibald sent the President's wife a note at the youth congress meeting. It asked her if a truly American group should not go on record as condemning the Russian invasion of Finland, in view of the President's statement in his Saturday address that 98 per cent of the American people favor Finland.

Then Mrs. Roosevelt advised the youth congress not to go on record for anything in which its members did not believe.

Mrs. Roosevelt on Spot.

Archibald Jr. framed his question in such a way as to put the question of the youth congress' failure to condemn the Russian invasion squarely before Mrs. Roosevelt. His note called attention to the fact that the youth congress had condemned the invasions of Ethiopia and China, and taken a stand on the war in Spain.

"No, I don't think you should go on record for anything that you don't believe in," Mrs. Roosevelt replied. "However, I think it is only fair to say that you don't understand the back history underlying many European and far eastern questions."

There was a muffled sound in the audience and Mrs. Roosevelt quickly broke off to ask them "not to hiss or boo until I have finished; then you may do whichever you please."

Sympathy With Spain.

"I agree with you that a stand should have been taken when Ethiopia was attacked," she went on. "I agree with you in sympathy for Spain. I agree with you in sympathy for China and Czecho-Slovakia, but I also have sympathy for Finland.

"The reason for that is that even tho you may think that the government that came into Finland originally had certain Fascist tendencies, nevertheless the Finnish government today is what the Finnish people want, or otherwise they would not be fighting as they are doing. And whether you like the Finnish government or not, they are entitled to the government they want.

Hears from Red Friends.

"I know all the reasons that are given for the Russian invasion of Finland, because I have heard them from my communist friends—but I still say there is no excuse for a big nation to invade a small nation, and therefore our sympathies ought to go to Finland."

"Should we lend money to belligerent countries?" demanded another query put to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"We have been lending money to China right along and we have still stayed neutral," she answered. "In the case of Finland, it is an undeclared war and the possibility that

WIFE DRIVES CAR INTO HER DRUNK HUSBAND, AND POLICE TAKE HAND

Cleveland, O., Feb. 11 (AP).—Police charged a 28 year old housewife with careless driving today, asserting she struck her husband with their automobile in an attempt to scare him into sobriety. The victim, Wesley Armour, was hospitalized with a broken leg. "I wanted to scare him because he had been drinking," police quoted Mrs. Armour, who turned the automobile toward him as he walked along a sidewalk but didn't intend to hit him, she said.

RED OFFENSIVE FAILS TO CRACK LINES OF ENEMY

Defenders Show No Sign of Retreat.

ON THE MANNERHEIM LINE, Summa Sector, Feb. 11 (AP).—Tanks which throw flaming naphtha and steel shields which are pushed ahead by the infantry are two of the latest war weapons the Russian army has thrown into its greatest offensive here on the Karelian isthmus, but apparently the Mannerheim line is still intact.

At Finnish positions within a mile and a half of Summa, focal point of the Russians' greatest drive for the last 11 days, so far as could be observed the Finns' line of forts is still intact.

The offensive, in which infantry, artillery, tanks, armored sleds, and planes have played a part, is not yet ended, but certainly Russian attempts to blast a way thru the isthmus fortifications by surprise attacks on the south end of the line have fallen short.

During the last 18 hours on the Summa front there have been no indications of a Finnish retreat or of plans to retreat.

Need Reinforcements.

Instead, there have been several strategic counter attacks. Moreover, the intensity of soviet infantry activity diminished yesterday in maneuvers to the east and west of Summa proper, and Finnish officers believe that unless reinforcements appear the Russians cannot continue on the offensive much longer.

How the Finnish lines are withstanding the assault could be seen on a tour under a heavy artillery barrage to within one and one-half miles of Summa village itself.

Eight inch shells fell within 50 yards, cracking and snapping ice laden branches and falling into woods on either side of the narrow path.

After a half dozen whined overhead, a party of correspondents, an escort officer, and two soldiers, took refuge in a dugout.

Frontal Attacks by Tanks.

For 30 minutes shells dropped around the refuge and the dugout shook from the explosions before the Russian artillery shifted its range to another sector.

Four times while the party waited field telephone reports told of frontal attacks by soviet tank units, which time after time were thrown back.

Under a moonless sky, in which a few stars glimmered faintly, the flare of exploding shells pierced the blackness like sheet lightning in the forested, almost mountainous area thru which the Mannerheim line runs.

To proceed would have taken the party into the midst of the fighting itself, and the officer in charge decided it was best not to go on.

Artillery shells of 3 to 12 inch caliber fell at the rate of 20 or more per minute, and there also was audible the sputter and zip of occasional howitzer and trench mortar firing. The officer, however, said the barrage was considerably lighter than on many occasions in the past two weeks.

Fire at Rapid Rate.

Night and day shelling, he said, is often at the rate of two per second in an area of 750 square meters [about 880 square yards].

While waiting for the firing to diminish, the officer host served tea with bread and liver paste. The dugout was warm and ruglined, with strips of red carpet on the walls and a well laid wooden floor. Bookshelves also hung on the walls.

Pausing occasionally to answer the telephone, the officer told how the Russian infantrymen came into battle with armored shields and in sleds drawn by tanks. Again and again they fell back, he said.

"It was like the slaughter of cattle," he declared. "Our men killed thousands."

"The Russians, thru the use of tanks throwing burning naphtha, and portable armor defense indicated they hoped to surprise and terrify our troops, but we quickly found a counter poison," the officer said.

However, he did not name the devices by which the armored attackers were stopped.

Use Captured Sleds.

These armored shields, one of which was brought out for examination, are not more than two feet high and are shaped like a snowplow with a hole in the apex for a rifle.

The Russians crawled on the ground behind the shields. Some came close to the Finnish lines last night and the Finnish troops went out to meet them. Many of the Russian shields have been captured and now top the Finnish trenches for protection, officers said.

Some of the shields, of larger size, were used for heavy and light machine guns. Others, fastened on skis, protected the sleds on which the soviet infantrymen rode into battle.

Throwing back the Russian infantry was easy and the soviet artillery was for the most part highly inaccurate, the Finns said, but the tankmen were highly trained and difficult to combat.

Altho many tanks were captured, the Russians within and the men riding on top and in the sleds behind were "very brave," Finnish officers declared.

The heavy Russian artillery situated far behind the lines was described as not very effective, but some lighter guns were brought to the very front "to improve the aim," the Finns said.

During the heaviest fighting, upwards of 170 planes supported the soviet artillery and by smoke signals attempted to direct the firing.

Two Planes Shot Down.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 11 (AP).—The eleventh consecutive day of Red army hammering against Finland's Mannerheim defense line failed to make headway, a Finnish communique announced today. Two soviet planes were reported shot down and five tanks destroyed.

Soviet tactics were shifted in Saturday's fighting, the Finns said, instead of concentrating on frontal assaults in the Summa sector, the Russians hurled their heaviest attacks against points east and west of Summa.

The Russians apparently were trying to flank the concrete and steel defense works which form Finland's line across the Karelian isthmus. But all attacks were repulsed, the communique said.

On the front northeast of Lake Ladoga "a column of 70 horse sledges was destroyed" among the Pitkaranta Islands.

Officers returning from the front lines reported very few of the newest type soviet warplanes are being used now against Finland and that older planes are employed as raiders.

Speculation was raised whether the Red army was concentrating its better equipment in some other region, possibly along the soviet union's southwestern frontier opposite Rumania.

Foreigners believed this might explain why soviet raids behind the battle lines have slackened. Viipuri [Viborg], coastal city near the Karelian isthmus war zone, was the only city raided yesterday. Two civilians were killed and numerous fires were started by the raids.

Reds Claim Forts Taken.

MOSCOW, Feb. 12 [Monday] (AP).—The capture of 16 more Finnish fortifications by Russia in artillery and infantry fighting on the Karelian isthmus was reported today in the Leningrad military headquarters' communique issued by Tass, official soviet news agency. The Red army said the fortifications included eight iron and concrete artillery forts.

[Last Thursday the Russian communique said the Red army had captured 13 forts in the Mannerheim line. That report was denied by the Finns.]

Clashes of infantry continued north of Lake Ladoga, the communique said. The text follows:

"Feb. 11. Activity of scouts and artillery fire in some sectors.

"On the Karelian isthmus there were artillery duels and the clash of infantry units which resulted in the enemy being repulsed and the soviet advance units capturing 16 defensive fortifications, including eight iron and concrete artillery forts.

"Soviet aviation made reconnoitering and bombing flights."

New Tactics

Russian troops attempting to force the Mannerheim line at Summa have shifted to flank attacks (1) after failure of a frontal attack. On the Lake Ladoga front the Finns announced they had destroyed a column of 70 horse sledges (2).

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 11.—A Helsingfors newspaper appeared with a red headline today, the first to be printed since the beginning of the war. But instead of heading an article about the war it informed readers that the bandy match [similar to field hockey] between the Finnish and Swedish teams at Stockholm today was to be broadcast and that listeners were expected to donate the price of admission to the war fund.

Finland's love for sports has not been abated by the war. The mimeographed news bulletins issued to the soldiers on the Karelian isthmus today announced that the authorities had decided to send four men to compete in Norway's ski championship at Hollenkollen in March. The skiers chosen includes the aces Lauri Valonen and Leo Laakso. All four are soldiers.

Lauri Pihkala, who heads the sports department of the Finnish home guards, told THE TRIBUNE that Finland still hopes that the Olympic games may be held in Helsingfors next summer.

SCANDINAVIANS PLAN AN AIR LINE LINK TO AMERICA

New York, Feb. 11 (AP).—A Scandinavian air mission disclosed tonight that negotiations were under way for establishing trans-Atlantic passenger air service between New York and Bergen, Norway.

Members of the mission, representing Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Finland, said only the first steps had been taken and that it would be impossible to say when the flights might begin. Per A. Norlin, trafic manager of the Swedish airlines, said flying boats, rather than land planes, probably would be used and would travel the Arctic circle route.

GERMANS HELPED FINNS BUILD LINE, RUSSIANS TOLD

Moscow Assails Britain as Anti-Soviet.

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (AP).—Soviet newspapers today reprinted a Rumanian magazine article declaring Finland's fortifications facing soviet Russia were built during the last four years by the German army in coöperation with France and England.

"Such inner 'fraternity' of the great powers was created because they all were anti-soviet," the article said.

The most important rôle in building up Finnish defenses was attributed to Britain, however, because "since 1917 the traditional British policy has been anti-soviet."

Give Account of Fighting.

The newspapers made no comment on the article's charges against Germany in the light of the ostensibly close relations between Russia and the reich under the soviet-German friendship pact.

The newspapers which reprinted the articles gave detailed accounts of the Finnish fighting, which were in contrast with soviet communiques reporting "nothing of importance at the front," the form which most Red army reports take.

This description of the fighting was given:

"Everything favors partisan warfare. The Finns burn everything.

"Soviet troops sleep in open tents.

"The cold is frightful and soviet troops must improvise stoves. They must organize communications with the rear and center. This inevitably slows down the tempo of advance."

Assail William Green.

Trud, official organ of the Russian trade unions, today criticized William Green for aiding Finland in its war against the soviet union.

The president of the American Federation of Labor, the publication said, was a "fierce enemy of the U. S. S. R. and a faithful hireling of the reactionary bourgeoisie, who are helping [former President Herbert] Hoover organize aid for Finland, who is drawing the United States into a second imperialistic war."

REDS DENY THEY ARE PERSECUTING RELIGIOUS POLES

Say Atheistic Teaching Will Do the Work.

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—A vigorous denial that religious persecution has been conducted or is contemplated in White Russian or western Ukrainian provinces of former Poland was published in today's atheist mouthpiece, Militant Atheist Society.

The writer declared no units or cells of the Atheist society will be organized in those provinces, no churches will be shut and no administrative action taken against religion or believers.

Lecture Work and Instruction.

"Our action will be confined to lecture work and scientific instruction and the gradual process of education which brought the masses in the U. S. S. R. to realize the fallacy of belief in outworn superstition and of submission to a reactionary clergy," the statement said. "Always our society recommended this method of procedure in the U. S. S. R. and we do not doubt it will succeed in the former Polish provinces also."

The statement is considered interesting because it coincides with the spurt of the society's activity in central Asia against the veiling of women, multiple wives and other Mohammedan practices.

Retain Sunday Holiday.

It was learned that attempts by local authorities in the Lemberg [Lwow] section to abolish Sunday as a holiday have been suppressed and that no interference with the religious freedom of any cult is now allowed.

The atheist writer made it clear that his article was intended as an answer to reports abroad and local antisoviet or pro-Polish propaganda in the former Polish provinces that the soviet régime will bring the closing of churches and persecution of believers.

1 Million Contribute $1 Each to Finnish Relief

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11 (AP).—Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, chairman of the Washington unit, announced today that more than $1,000,000 in $1 contributions had been received by the Finnish relief fund. Walsh said this "magnificent response from the man in the street" had induced leading industrialists and bankers to promise to duplicate this amount.

DALADIER FACES MORE GRILLINGS BY PARLIAMENT

Censorship, Economics Issues Rise.

PARIS, Feb. 11 (AP).—France opened today a new phase of wartime teamwork, marked by fresh harmony between military and legislative leaders.

The chamber of deputies' unanimous vote of confidence yesterday in Premier Edouard Daladier's plan for war operations partially cleared the atmosphere of criticism, tho he still must face interpellations on economics in the senate and on censorship in the chamber.

The senate session is scheduled for Thursday and the chamber will hold no more meetings until Friday. It is believed that the discussion of censorship in the chamber will not be an attack on the government but merely a debate to thresh out what Leon Blum, Socialist leader, and his supporters consider abuses that have grown up in administration of French propaganda work. Blum will lead the discussion.

New Cold Wave Calms Front.

A new cold wave on the western front made major developments there improbable. The British-French communique tonight said of today's operations: "Local activity of patrols and artillery." There was nothing last night to report, according to the morning war summary.

[The German communique yesterday stated: "On the west front the day passed quietly."]

Acclaim Nation's Unity.

As a demonstration of national unity, 534 members of the chamber of deputies gave a unanimous vote of confidence to Daladier last night after two days of secret sessions that examined national defense and other issues. Political observers from the extreme right to the extreme left hailed the vote as a symbol of national unity. They echoed Daladier's words before the secret meetings that the debate and the vote of confidence would provide the best answer to German agents attempting to divide France.

16,000 Jap Troops Slain in 3 Days, Chinese Claim

CHUNGKING, Feb. 12, Monday (AP).—Asserting that 16,000 Japanese troops had been slain by counter attacking Chinese forces in Kwangsi province in the last three days, Chinese military leaders said today the tide of battle on that front had turned in their favor. An official communique declared the Japanese had repeatedly attempted to withdraw from Pinyang, but had been cut off with heavy losses. To the south, Japanese forces along the Wuming-Nanning highway were said to have been scattered by Chinese attacks.

BALKANS GEAR WAR MACHINES TO MEET CRISIS

Backdoor Drive Against Germany Envisaged.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 11 (AP).—Fresh preparations to increase the number of men under arms in the Balkans today underscored fears that southeastern Europe might become a battleground in the spring.

Rumania, over whose resources of oil and grain the western powers and Germany have been maneuvering, was reported planning to add 200,000 reservists to her active forces on March 1. This development follows reports that Britain and France have a force of 500,000 men concentrated in the near east.

These British and French troops, military leaders said today, held the threat of a backdoor drive thru the Balkans against Germany, or they would be strategically ready should Germany, now meeting diplomatic rebuffs from both Turkey and Rumania, decide herself upon a drive thru the area upon which she depends for essential materials for her European war.

Drive on Red Oil Fields.

A Turkish-British-French drive on rich Russian oil fields has been cited as another possibility for expanding Europe's war.

The Bucharest government admits it has 800,000 men on duty now but foreign military observers place the total at closer to 1,400,000. The calling up of 200,000 reservists, thus, by their estimates, would give the nation 1,600,000 men ready to face any spring danger.

Officials reported that among the many factors leading to uncertainty over the future, and therefore causing the Rumanians to take the extra precautions, was a noncommittal reply from Berlin to a Bucharest government request for German guarantees of Rumanian territory.

No Ironclad Alliance.

Such a request had been threatened by Bucharest when Rumania's Balkan entente partners—Jugo-Slavia, Turkey, and Greece—failed to agree at their recent Belgrade conference on an ironclad military alliance—Rumania's proposal to preserve Balkan neutrality.

[Only a gentlemen's agreement to stick together against any aggression was reached at the Belgrade conference.]

The occasion for Rumania's guarantee request, authoritative sources said, was presented when Germany suggested that Rumania reduce her armed forces so that man power so freed could be employed for the production of much needed materials for the Reich's war in the west. The suggestion was reported rejected yesterday in Bucharest.

Elsewhere in the Balkans, a survey has shown that defense measures repeating the military concentrations of last year are ready to be put in force; that the little neutrals' conscript armies will be on a war footing by mid-March.

War on Two Fronts.

Fears that the diplomatic struggle between the western powers and Germany over the Balkans' grain and oil might develop into armed conflict have been particularly deepseated since it has been estimated that Britain and France have a force of 500,000 men in the near east.

"It is absolutely vital for England and France," one Balkan military expert declared, "to force Germany to fight on two fronts to cut her off from our grain and oil."

The steady deterioration of Turkish-German relations, as exemplified last week by Turkey's discharge of 100 German technical experts and the occupation of German owned shipyards, has done much to impress leaders of the little neutrals with the possibility of war.

A possible British and French campaign in the Balkans, to strike at Germany's backdoor, would pursue three routes, as envisioned by military experts here.

1. From Salonika, Greece, thru the Vardar and Morava river valleys to the Danube.
3. Along "the diagonal furrow" from Istanbul thru Bulgaria.
3. Up the Danube river valley from Rumania.

Other lines of possible attack, military strategists felt sure, would involve united action by Turkey, France and Britain against the rich Caucasian oil fields of soviet Russia.

Appear in W-G-N Show

Three stars of stage and screen who broadcast comedy over W-G-N from the studio yesterday. Left to right: Alan Dinehart, Glenda Farrell, and Lyle Talbot.

Surprise Audience

Alan Dinehart, wearing his Sunday clothes of faded blue sweater and worn, baggy tweeds, sidled up to the W-G-N microphone yesterday to make a hilarious success of another Fifth Row Center broadcast.

Dinehart, well known actor and playwright, co-starred with Glenda Farrell and Lyle Talbot in a political satire, "I Do Not Choose to Run." It was written and directed by Blair Walliser, and was broadcast nationally over the Mutual Broadcasting system from 5 to 5:30 p. m.

As something of a surprise, "Fifth Row Center," in which screen and stage stars are presented each Sunday, had a visual as well as a radio audience yesterday. Dinehart heard that people were clamoring outside the W-G-N studio for admission, and, with a gay look at his comfortable clothes, stuck his thumbs under his lapels and said, "Why not?" So in came the public.

Dinehart, Talbot, and Miss Farrell all are appearing at the Selwyn theater in the comedy, "Thanks for My Wife," of which Dinehart is co-author. It contains 346 clocked laughs, he said proudly.

SCOTLAND YARD JOINS HUNT FOR WOMAN SPIES

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP).—Because valuable information has leaked out to Germany, Scotland Yard is coöperating with the secret service division of the war office in an antigossip drive against women spies.

The British reported today that a few of the 36,000 German-born women in Britain have been arrested under wartime defense regulations and others are being watched in the belief that some may be enemy agents.

Naval, military, and air commanding officers have been instructed to hold antigossip parades emphasizing the dangers of service men talking to unknown women, especially in the London area.

Suspected women are said to frequent dance halls, bars, and small hotels where they might meet fighting men on leave. Some even are said to have joined the air raid precautions service.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has announced that the government is considering a bill imposing the death penalty for permitting information to leak out.

PREDICTS BRITAIN WILL SOON AGAIN BUY U. S. TOBACCO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins tonight predicted early resumption of British purchases of American tobacco, relieving a serious crisis in the American tobacco market.

He said that his experts had advised him that Britain would resume buying American tobacco soon because of British preference for American tobacco and also because of the tariff revenue derived from importing it.

Britain, formerly one of the world's prime customers for the leaf, stopped buying it from the United States shortly after the war began, pleading the necessity to conserve its buying power for airplanes and munitions and also the benefit of cementing its Turkish alliance by buying Turkish tobacco.

BIG TANKER HITS A MINE, BUT IT REMAINS AFLOAT

Anchors Mile and Half Off British Coast.

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP).—The Norwegian tanker Gallia, 9,968 tons, which struck a mine off the southeast coast during the night, but remained afloat, anchored a mile and a half offshore today. A coastal lifeboat aided her crew.

Reports continued to trickle in on Friday's onslaught by German warplanes on east coast shipping, in which the British yesterday acknowledged the sinking of two armed trawlers with the loss of 22 lives.

Two Are Wounded.

It was disclosed today that two of the crew of the 371 ton Boston Trader, a British vessel, were slightly injured by machine gun bullets from an attacking plane.

Crew members said the raider dropped between 12 and 16 bombs, failed to score a hit, and finally resorted to machine gun fire. British fighters, however, then appeared and the warplane fled.

British Ship Loses Propeller.

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 11 (AP).—The 6,008 ton British freighter Oregon, previously reported disabled by a mine or torpedo, was towed into the Tagus river today, minus her propeller which she lost Feb. 3 in heavy weather rather than thru war action.

The Danish salvage tugs Valkyrien and Geir had the disabled vessel in tow. Three of the Valkyrien's crew were killed and another injured when the heavy seas snapped a hawser.

Patrol Boat Sunk, Nazis Say.

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP).—The high command today reported German airmen had sunk a British patrol boat in spite of bad weather. The communique said:

"The German air force, despite bad weather, carried out reconnaissance flights to Great Britain. A British outpost boat was sunk. All the planes returned undamaged."

German Freighter Sails.

RECIFE, Brazil, Feb. 11 (AP).—The 5,846 ton German freighter Uruguay sailed from Recife today with a large quantity of foodstuffs, presumably heading across the Atlantic in an attempt to run the British blockade.

Rescued from Netherlands Ship.

New York, Feb. 11.—The Holland-America line received a cable at Hoboken today reporting that the passengers and crew of the steamship Burgerdyk, which sank in the English channel yesterday after a collision, had been rescued by the Edam of the same line. Details of the collision were not given. The Burgerdyk sailed from Hoboken for Rotterdam on Jan. 30.

11 OF GRAF SPEE CREW DISAPPEAR AT MONTEVIDEO

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 11.—Eleven interned officers and sailors of the scuttled German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the German freighter Tacoma, the Spee's supply ship, have disappeared. They were believed today to have escaped from Uruguay and to be making their way back to Germany by way of Italy. All are specialists qualified for duties aboard submarines.

The officers had the freedom of Montevideo and are presumed to have flown to Brazil to board Italian liners.

FALL IS FATAL TO TWEEDSMUIR, CANADA'S CHIEF

Governor General Victim of Concussion.

26, 1875, the son of the Rev. John Buchan.

His boyhood in the wild heather and moor country of Scotland developed in him a love of nature which he later expressed in his writings. He studied at Glasgow university and then went on to Oxford, where he began his literary career. He published his first novel, "Sir Quixote of the Moors," in 1895 and was admitted to the English bar in 1901.

Then followed a long succession of distinguished novels and biographies. His last book, "Augustus Cæsar," was published in 1937. His other works included "Prester John," "Courts of the Morning," "Hunting Tower," "The Three Hostages," in fiction and biographies of Sir Walter Raleigh, Oliver Cromwell, and George V. ["The People's King"].

Served in France.

Buchan's entrance into public life dates from 1901, when he became private secretary to Lord Milner, British high commissioner for South Africa. He served in France on the British army headquarters staff in 1916-'17 and later was war time director of information.

In 1907 he married Susan Charlotte Grosvenor, herself a writer of charm. They had three sons and a daughter.

In May, 1935, two months after he became governor general of Canada, King George conferred upon him the title of baron of Elsfield and appointed him a knight of the grand cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. He subsequently chose the title of Tweedsmuir of Elsfield, the names of his two homes.

While he was governor general he lunched with President Roosevelt when the President visited Quebec in the summer of 1936 and was a guest at the White House the following year. He also entertained King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth during their Canadian tour last year.

Irish Riot

Police and Irish republican rioters clashed yesterday in Belfast (1). Men identified as members of the Irish republican army attacked a military camp in County Down (2), seizing rifles. Police broke up a meeting of nationalists at Armagh City (3), and two Irish army sergeants were wounded in a shooting in the Cork barracks (4).

JAP BOMBS START LANDSLIDE; CUT CHINESE RAILWAY

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 11.—Thru freight trafic on the railway between French Indo-China and Yunnan province in China, until recently China's main channel of imports and exports, will be impossible for several months as result of recent Japanese bombings of the line, according to reliable sources in Kunming, western terminal of the line. Bombs dropped on a precipitous mountainside above one section of the railway were said to have started a landslide that obliterated the roadbed for more than a mile. The damage done when a bomb wrecked a train in a tunnel, killing or injuring more than 200, was said to have been much less than the destruction caused by the landslide.

PROBE MYSTERY DEATH OF TIRE DEALER IN SHOP

Police last night were investigating the death of Dave Leschin, whose body was found earlier in the day in his automobile tire shop at 2045 Archer avenue. They said Leschin's skull had been crushed either by a blow or in a fall.

An employé, who identified himself only as "Louie," said he had left Leschin at 2 a. m. yesterday. Detectives were investigating a theory that Leschin had been slain by robbers.

Leschin, who was 55 years old, had been separated from his wife and a son, 18 years old.

RUMANIANS BARE RING DEALING IN FAKE U. S. NOTES

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 11.—Police in Cernauti, near the Russian frontier, have turned up what is said to be a ring of counterfeiters of United States money.

Bucharest authorities arrested a certain Max Keller, who had a forgery record in Berlin, and are trailing other members of the ring.

committee as a communist front organization with several hundred tentacles in the Roosevelt administration, folded up. The American Civil Liberties union shook up its directorate and purged itself of its unabashed Reds.

Mr. Roosevelt gave evidence of being shaken. He became mildly critical of Russia and allowed the birthday of the soviet union to pass for the first time without sending a congratulatory message to its president. The department of justice began to prosecute communists exposed by the Dies committee. The first one was Earl Browder, head of the American communist party and chief apologist of the Stalin-Hitler pact. When Browder was convicted of falsifying American passports he retaliated by exposing the collaboration of the communist leaders with the Roosevelt leaders in the reëlection of the President.

John Lewis Wavers.

John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was shaken. Like Browder he had given powerful support to the President for reëlection, raising $600,000 of union labor money for the Roosevelt campaign chest. Now Lewis ordered that communists in his C. I. O. be purged. Finally he broke with Mr. Roosevelt, denouncing the New Deal as a failure.

Eventully, all that was lacking was a full and free confession by Mr. Roosevelt of the error of his tenderness for communism. The whole country was expressing its admiration for the Finns and its abhorrence of the Russians. Mr. Roosevelt not only had not repudiated the soviets, but had ruled out military aid for Finland for fear of angering Russia.

On the unpopular side, he was threatened with an impairment of his prestige just as his third term candidacy was getting under way. According to views of official Washington the Youth congress came none too soon to give him the opportunity to get on the popular side against communism.

British Await Result of Election Fought on 'War or Peace' Issue

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The whole country is awaiting the outcome of London's first blackout election, fought out in the densely populated working class district of Central Southwark on the issue of calling off or pushing on with the war. The election was held yesterday for the seat in parliament left vacant by the death of Harry Day, Labor member.

The main battle was waged between the antiwar candidate, C. W. Searson, and John Martin, official representative of the Labor party which is backing the government's war policy.

The third candidate in the list was the wealthy, eccentric business woman, Mrs. Violet van der Elst. She brought a touch of color to the proceedings but few took her campaign seriously. She is a strong opponent of capital punishment.

Believe Martin Won.

Most political prophets, in preliminary estimates tonight, contended that Martin topped the polls. But the question was, how far did Searson succeed in attracting votes not only from the pacifist and leftist minorities but also from labor electors as a demonstration against the government's conduct of the war? The answer will not be known until the figures are announced tomorrow.

In election addresses Searson claimed to be the "mouthpiece of vast numbers of people who say the war is not being fought for just motives and is against the interests of the people."

On the eve of the voting he announced he had received a manifesto of support for his antiwar policy from 32 ministers in this country.

A Strange Election.

Whatever the result, the Central Southwark election will rank as one of the strangest in British parliamentary history. It is normally a district numbering more than 33,000 electors who are staunchly Laborite. But the war has brought a general dislocation of the population. It is estimated that more than 30 per cent of the voters have been dispersed.

The outcome probably will be affected by the blackout, too. The average number of votes cast during the daylight hours was 600. This dwindled to almost nothing in the blackout.

DR. GUARDIA WINS PRESIDENCY IN COSTA RICA VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 11.—Dr. Calderon Guardia, National Republican candidate, today was chosen president of Costa Rica in one of the quietest elections in the republic's history.

Dr. Guardia, who is 40 years old, succeeds Leon Cortes Castro. He will take over the office on May 1. It is reported he will visit the United States shortly afterward.

MASS PROTEST TO BE MADE ON N. Y. SPENDING

New York, Feb. 11 (AP).—Opposition of taxpayers and business men to certain of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's suggestions on finance will crystallize tomorrow in a pilgrimage of several thousand citizens to a public hearing in Albany.

Principal objects of their protests are the expenditure of $396,700,000 as proposed by the governor in his budget message to the legislature, and his recommendation for a $15,000,000 income tax increase.

HOOVER VISIONS AFRICAN HAVEN FOR PERSECUTED

America No Longer Able to Open Doors, He Says.

The creation of a new frontier state in the highlands of Central Africa, where 10,000,000 persons left homeless by war and persecution may find sanctuary, was visualized last night by Herbert Hoover.

The former President said that for 150 years America has been a sanctuary for people seeking a free life, but that it now has its own unemployment and suffering and can no longer open its doors. A place must be found where refugees can build a new civilization, he said, and African frontiers appear to be the best hope.

Hoover spoke at a dinner given in the Standard club by the Jewish Welfare Fund of Chicago to open the 1940 campaign for funds to aid Jewish refugees from Germany, Poland, and other European countries.

Goal Set at 25 Million.

A national goal of $25,000,000 has been set for the 1940 fund, of which Harris Perlstein is chairman. The Chicago goal is $2,250,000. Perlstein said more than $1,000,000 already has been subscribed here.

"We came out of the great war 20 years ago," said Hoover. "We hoped mankind would set its face to build a better and more secure civilization. We underestimated the malevolent forces of imperialism, of economic desperation, hate, atheism, racialism, and intolerance that had been loosed by the war.

"From these dragon's teeth have sprung the allied communist and Nazi flood with their religious and political persecutions. That persecution has not been limited to Jews alone. From these persecutions hundreds of thousands already were refugees.

Civilian Hardships Told.

"Today we see two-thirds of the people in the world again engaged in senseless destruction. More and more war becomes a war of soldiers against civilians. And still another and new attack upon civilians has emerged. This is the forcible eviction of people in blocks of millions from their homes to make racial groups fit in political boundaries.

"Whatever else may result from the present war, I have no belief that we will not again have to meet the forces of economic desperation, hate, and intolerance. These barbaric forces are not lessened by war. We shall have millions of evicted people seeking refuge where they can live in freedom and hope."

DANCERS TURN TO CARRYING TRAYS IN HOTEL STRIKE

Belleair, Fla., Feb. 11 [Special].—Two hundred guests at the exclusive Belleview Biltmore hotel, who were left with empty plates in front of them last night at dinner when the dining room force of 95 suddenly went on strike, were served their meals today by the hotel manager, with the help of his assistant managers, the press agent, the newsstand girl, the ballroom dance team, and an impromptu crew of waiters recruited from the hotel staff.

The strikers, who walked out over the dismissal of Maurice St. Clair, the head waiter, left their dormitory on the hotel grounds, apparently resigned to loss of their jobs. St. Clair was hopeful that some would be placed in other Florida resorts. Others who had fare were going back north.

There was no picketing, and Jack Powers, the hotel manager, regarded the strike as a closed incident. A replacement dining room staff is being brought from Chicago.

Mrs. Mary Morgan at detective bureau after arrest of her husband.

A watchman heard the crashing of glass early yesterday at the C. D. Peacock jewelry store, 101 South State street. The watchman, W. E. Meehan, saw a thief reach thru a hole in a side window a moment later. Meehan ran toward him, firing. The thief fled to an alley and escaped.

The watchman summoned Detectives Andrew Carroll and William Donovan, who felt the hoods of parked cars in the vicinity until they found one that was warm. Inside the car they discovered papers with the name and address of Edward Morgan, 25 years old. They hurried to the Morgan home at 4707 Malden street where they found Morgan and his wife. The detectives said Morgan confessed breaking the window with a rolling pin, but said he was forced to flee before he could take anything. They said he confessed smashing a window and stealing three watches from a jewelry store at 55 E. Washington street a month ago.

GLIDER EXPERTS SHOW CHICAGO HOW IT'S DONE

Ten Soar Thru Air Before Crowd of 8,000.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Ten experts at motorless flying spent two hours in the air yesterday afternoon over Elmhurst airport, two miles west of Elmhurst, in Du Page county. A throng estimated at 8,000 watched the silent soaring planes maneuvering in flights that covered periods up to six minutes.

The short time interval of the flights was because of the lack of thermal currents, or rising air currents upon which sailplane pilots must ride. All the flying was done following winch tows to heights ranging from 500 to 800 feet.

Two Win Cups.

The winners of two competitions were Randy Chapman of Detroit, Mich., and Walter Hause of Dale, Wis. Chapman, flying a German built Rhonsperber plane, soared for 6 minutes 35 seconds. Hause, after being towed to 800 feet in an American built soaring plane, managed to land the ship within 3 feet of a mark in the airport. Chapman won a cup presented by the Aircraft Owners and Pilots' association for the day's duration record. Hause won a similar cup for accuracy in landing.

Ted Bellak of Frankfort, Mich., gave an antiaircraft demonstration with Battery F of the 202d Coast Guard antiaircraft, a National Guard unit from Chicago. The battery set up three machine guns on the field and proceeded to "shoot" Bellak out of the sky.

Sailplane Loops Three Times.

Capt. J. M. Welch, commanding the unit, opened fire with blank cartridges as Bellak soared at 3,000 feet following an airplane tow to that height. As the machine guns began popping on the ground the glider slid off into a spin which continued to within 500 feet of the ground. There Bellak straightened out, looped three times, and landed.

Thirty-five flights were made from the winch—a huge drum of steel wire connected to the driving mechanism of a small motor truck. The end of the cable was attached to a sailplane 3,000 feet from the truck. At a signal the motor was started, winding in the wire and drawing the sailplane aloft.

When the pilot in each case reached what he considered a maximum height possible, he released his end of the cable from the plane and began soaring. Stanley Corcoran of Frankfort, Mich., flew the Cinema 2, a ship of his own design and construction, and the only two seater soaring plane on the field. Corcoran won the winter meet at Elmira, N. Y., in this plane a month ago.

CAMPAIGN BOOK ONLY AUTHORIZED LIFE OF LINCOLN

Once $20 a Thousand, but It Is Rare Now.

The only biography of himself which Abraham Lincoln ever read and authorized is among the more than 700 books and pamphlets in the Chicago Historical society's famed Lincoln collection.

This volume, paper bound, was issued in 1860 as Lincoln's campaign biography. It was written by his friend, John Locke Scripps. Altho the 32 page work sold for $20 a thousand, and thousands of them were distributed, only half a dozen or so are known to exist.

Concise Account Given.

The tiny book gives a concise account of Lincoln's life from the time he was born to the moment when the book was written. Lincoln himself read and edited the entire work, and Scripps is said to have complained, rather bitterly, that some of his most readable paragraphs were stricken out. Plenty remain, however, including the one in which Lincoln is described as he was during the Black Hawk campaign of 1832.

"We have been told by men who were with Lincoln during this campaign," Scripps says, "that he was always energetic in the performance of his duty, never shirking from danger or hardship; that he was a universal favorite, the best story teller, and the best at a wrestling match or foot race in the whole country."

Physical Features Described.

After dealing with the Lincoln-Douglas debates, and reciting Lincoln's service as a legislator, the book ends with this description of the candidate:

"Mr. Lincoln stands 6 feet 4 in his stockings. His frame is not muscular, but gaunt and wiry. In walking, his gait, tho firm, is never brisk. He steps slowly and deliberately, almost always with his head inclined forward and his hands clasped behind his back. . . . At rest his features, tho they are those of a man of mark, are not such as belong to a handsome man; but when his fine, dark gray eyes are lighted up by any emotion, and his features begin their play, he would be chosen from among a crowd as one who had in him not only the kindly sentiments which women love, but the heavier metal of which full grown men and Presidents are made.

"His hair is black, and tho thin, is wiry. His head sits well on his shoulders, but beyond that it defies description. It nearer resembles that of Clay than of Webster's, but is unlike either. . . . A slightly Roman nose, a wide cut mouth, and a dark complexion with the appearance of having been weather-beaten completes the description."

Tells of Personal Habits.

Then follows a resumé of his personal habits:

"His food is plain and nutritious. He never drinks intoxicating liquors of any sort. He is not addicted to tobacco in any of its shapes. He was never accused of a licentious act in his life. He never uses profane language. He never gambles. He is particularly cautious about incurring pecuniary obligations for any purpose whatever; and, in debt, he is never content until the score is discharged. We presume he owes no man a dollar. He never speculates. . . . His enemies may say he tells black Republican lies; but no man ever charged that, in a professional capacity, or as a citizen dealing with his neighbors, he would depart from the Scriptural command.

"He will take to the presidential chair just the qualities which the country now demands to save it from impending destruction—ability that no man can question, firmness that nothing can overbear, honesty that has never been impeached, and patriotism that never despairs."

H. H. Pillinger Jr. and Ferdinand.

Ferdinand, the 13 month old Holstein bull, is doing well, thank you, even if he is hobbling around the pasture with a plaster cast on his right front leg. The bull is owned by Dr. Herbert H. Pillinger, Elgin physician, who owns the Her-Vel Hill farm on Highland road, two miles west of Elgin.

Ferdinand arrived Thursday in a truck. There was no ramp for him to walk down, so he jumped. The leg was broken on the frozen ground. Dr. Pillinger's son, Herbert Jr., an Elgin High school senior who has watched his father do many operations and plans to study medicine himself, applied a tourniquet to stanch the flow of blood. Then he set the leg. Dr. Pillinger put on the cast when he arrived.

GOOD ROADS LEAD ALONG TRAILS USED BY LINCOLN

Motorists interested in retracing the pilgrimage of Abraham Lincoln and his family as sketched by Philip Kinsley in a series of articles in THE TRIBUNE can acquaint themselves with the historical associations of the country in which Lincoln lived by following good motor roads, the Chicago Motor club advised yesterday.

The Lincoln pilgrimage starts at Hodgenville, Ky., where Lincoln was born, leads by Kentucky 61, W-31, and 60 into Spencer county, Indiana, where Lincoln spent his boyhood. From there Indiana 45 and 64, U. S. 41, and Illinois 1, 16, 32, 181, and 121 lead to Decatur, Ill., where Lincoln parted with his family and went on to New Salem to make his fortune. From Decatur, U. S. 36 and Illinois 125 and 97 lead to New Salem.

A motor map prepared in consultation with the motor club is printed on the back page of today's TRIBUNE. The law circuit which Lincoln traveled and the swing he made around the state during the historic debates with Douglas are shown in conjunction with the map.

the government a means by which this republic binds all Americans in common brotherhood."

When the 1936 Republican presidential nominee and the national chairman who organized the Democrats against him arrived together from Chicago today Landon joked Farley over his new prominence as a contender for the 1940 Democratic nomination. Farley gave permission to Massachusetts Democrats yesterday to file a slate of delegates pledged to back him for the presidency.

The two men lunched together on the train which brought them here and as they posed for a joint picture at the train steps Landon greeted a newspaper man with a big smile and this remark:

"I hope the postmaster general gives you as good a story as he gave me coming down here. You know I've been saying for a long time that Jim would make a good President."

Farley's smile was rather wintry, but once he was installed in his hotel he left no doubt that he was a candidate.

It's Message to Go Ahead.

"The letter to Chairman William H. Burke [of Massachusetts] speaks for itself," he declared.

"And that was a message to go ahead?" he was asked.

"That's right," came the positive answer.

Another question as to whether President Roosevelt had given him the "go sign" brought a repetition of "the letter speaks for itself."

While Landon was being taken to New Salem, the restored Lincoln village where Farley will dedicate a postoffice tomorrow, the postmaster general relaxed in his rooms and approved the Democratic state slate picked here yesterday and headed by Harry B. Hershey for governor.

Farley announced that headquarters for the coming Democratic national convention in Chicago would be set up in the Stevens hotel. He added that he would name a date for the convention "five minutes after the Republicans pick their date." The G. O. P. national committee will meet in Washington for that purpose on Friday.

Farley spent the night as the guest of Gov. Horner in the executive mansion.

31 BOYS AND GIRLS LEAVE TODAY FOR LINCOLN SHRINE

Thirty-one boys and girls, winners of an essay contest on "My Rights Under the Constitution," are to leave Chicago early this morning for New Salem and Springfield to take part in ceremonies commemorating the 131st anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. They will visit New Salem park, a reconstruction of the village where the martyred President lived as a young man, and then will go on to ceremonies at Lincoln's tomb in Springfield.

North side community organizations participated yesterday in ceremonies at the Saint-Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Lincoln park. Five hundred reserve army officers attended special services at St. James Episcopal church, where Lincoln is said to have worshiped at one time. Raymond Massey, star of the play, "Abe Lincoln In Illinois," spoke from the pulpit on Lincoln and his works.

Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York will speak tonight on "Abraham Lincoln and the Republican Party" in the Ravenswood Masonic Temple, Wilson avenue and Paulina street. Judge John C. Lewe will speak on Lincoln at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Bar association.

Husband Dies of Burns After Saving Wife in Fire

William Sayers, 66 years old, died in the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet yesterday of burns incurred Friday while rescuing his wife from the blazing kitchen of their home at New Lenox in Will county. The fire resulted from a gas explosion. Mrs. Sayers was uninjured.

DEWEY GETS DAY LONG WELCOME ON SPOKANE TRIP

Stirs Up Enthusiasm of G. O. P. in Northwest.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 11.—Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, came into the Pacific northwest today and met a welcome that kept him busy from morning to nightfall. Soon after his arrival in Spokane he was the guest of the Early Birds Breakfast club. Five hundred were present at this function, and so great was the demand for tickets that 2,000 were turned down for lack of space.

Men and women desiring to get a look at Dewey filled the lobby and corridors of the Davenport hotel.

At a Lincoln day dinner tonight, there were 1,500 diners. Originally 350 guests had been expected, and the affair had to be transferred to a larger hall to accommodate the guests. Dewey made an impromptu Lincoln talk.

Dewey Catches Fancy of West.

Local politicians tonight are saying the interest manifested in Dewey at every turn indicates how the racket busting New York district attorney has struck the popular imagination. Politics in this state is a somewhat complicated mess, and Republican chieftains say Dewey's candidacy has energized the party in Washington state, whether or not he is the nominee.

After the breakfast this morning Dewey was taken in an automobile parade to Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia river, about 90 miles to the west. He spent two hours looking over this vast engineering project, known as the largest man made masonry structure in the world. Frank A. Banks, supervising engineer in charge of the project for the bureau of reclamation, took Dewey on a tour of inspection.

Indians Dance for Dewey.

At a luncheon in the mess hall, a delegation of Nez Perce Indians from the Colville reservation met Dewey and put on a tribal dance.

The Lincoln day address to be delivered at Portland, Ore., tomorrow night will be the outstanding event of Dewey's trip to the northwest.

Local reporters today learned from Dewey that his father, George Martin Dewey, got his start in the newspaper business as a cub reporter on a Tacoma, Wash., paper 48 years ago. Dewey's uncle, the late Henry B. Dewey, was state superintendent of public instruction of Washington years ago.

[A description of Grand Coulee dam by Arthur Evans will be found in the market section.]

H. L. Plummer, National Official of Legion, Resigns

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 11 (AP).—Harold L. Plummer of Madison, Wis., assistant national adjutant of the American Legion since September, 1932, resigned today to join an Indianapolis law firm headed by Robert W. Lyons. Plummer was a second lieutenant in the field artillery and saw action with the 32d division in the world war. After the war he was assistant cashier of the bank of Durand, Wis., and later served two terms as mayor of Cadott, Wis.

Bert Lahr, comedian, and Mildred Schroeder, former showgirl, before elopement to Elkton, Md.

Elkton, Md., Feb. 11 (AP).—Bert Lahr, 44 years old, stage and screen comedian, and Mildred Schroeder, 26, former show girl, were married in a hotel lobby today by the Rev. J. Warren Albinson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church. Hotel guests witnessed the ceremony. Lahr made application for a license Feb. 8, the day his first marriage was annulled in Westchester County court, New York. Miss Schroeder also was married before. Lahr gave his name on the license as Irving Lahrhein.

FARM AND LABOR VIEWS OUTLINED TO VANDENBERG

Backers List Minnesota Favorable to Him.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 11.—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who in an address here last night outlined his platform as candidate for the Republican nomination for President, conferred with farm and labor groups here today and later left for Grand Rapids, Mich., his home.

The Vandenberg supporters declare that the Minnesota delegation to the Republican national convention, while it probably will be uninstructed, will favor Vandenberg. District conventions will meet in March to elect delegates to a state convention.

Wisconsin leaders joined in the Vandenberg conferences yesterday and today, for it is in that state that he will test his strength against Thomas E. Dewey in the primary election of April 2.

Hears James Speak Tonight.

The senator will attend a Lincoln day dinner in Grand Rapids tomorrow night at which the main speeches will be given by Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania, also a candidate for the Republican nomination, and Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, who presented the senator at the dinner here last night.

Gov. James' appearance in Michigan at this time is considered significant, and Vandenberg's friends do not hesitate to indicate that the James support in the national convention might combine with the Vandenberg group. James is to make his own campaign platform speech at the dinner.

The Vandenberg boosters put a good deal of importance on the Wisconsin vote. If the senator wins that state, they say, he will go into the convention with the following lineup:

Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, half of the Iowa delegates, Nebraska, Missouri, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Washington, Arizona, North and South Dakota.

Minnesotan Active Backer.

One of the most active of the Vandenberg supporters in Minnesota is Mike Holm, secretary of state, who has been a leader in Republican vote getting in this state for the last eight or nine elections. In the 1938 election the Republicans got 64 per cent of the vote.

Representatives of several farm groups indorsed the senator's candidacy today after conferring with him, particularly as to his attitude on the Hull trade treaties, which are highly unpopular in this section.

In the matter of the trade treaties which have operated against agriculture, it was stated Vandenberg stood against them despite the sentiment for the treaties in the automobile industry of Michigan.

Senator's Farm Program.

The Vandenberg farm program includes a monopoly of the American market for the American farmer, soil conservation payments on a basis of voluntary coöperation, extended to all crops, incentive payments for those who raise crops which this country has to import, and a subsidy of farm exports, based on the old McNary-Haugen two price, equalization fee principle.

The labor leaders that talked with the senator, including state and international union men, wanted to know if he was in favor of the Wagner act amendments proposed by William Green, A. F. of L. president. They were assured that he favored these amendments and a few more.

Queen of Egypt Will Be Mother Again in March

CAIRO, Egypt., Feb. 11 (AP).—Queen Farida of Egypt is expecting another child at the end of March. A daughter, Princess Ferial, was born on Nov. 17, 1938. The queen, a commoner, and King Farouk were married Jan. 20 of that year.

THE LAURELS OF LINCOLN

By CALEB

TESTED BY time, the stature of a national leader undergoes one of three changes. (1) It grows, as the years pass, to a point of maximum appreciation; then becomes fixed. (2) It is greatest during the leader's actual life and works; then quietly diminishes. (3) It grows almost immediately after a leader's passing, and thereafter continues to increase.

Washington illustrates the first metamorphosis; Lincoln is an outstanding example of the third. Feeling against Lincoln, during the unpromising earlier phases of the Civil War, flourished in many quarters—even among his own Cabinet. Press and platform criticism was plentiful; praise lamentably rare. His motives were maligned; his policies were labeled political sophistry; his prairie presence and inappropriate penchant for the "funny story" were virulently lampooned at home and abroad. Contrasted with Old World aplomb, his plain manners and camaraderie with high and low were frequent targets for international ridicule.

History's subsequent perspective, however, shows why he outlived all these contemporary carpings and handicaps. Destiny had planted him in the dazzling focus of our country's greatest crisis. No state figure before or since has stood so stalwartly silhouetted against the skies of history. Character, vision, tolerance, grim-earnest leadership, grandeur of spirit, dwarfed all such incidentals as prairie plainness and want of grace. The littlest of men soon discovered that here was a Great Man.

Irresistibly convincing, too, were Lincoln's elemental American origin and environment. Pioneer birth, pioneer poverty, log-cabin shelter and schooling—the primitive simplicity of his rail-splitting, storekeeping and lawyering—validated his credentials as a "common man's man," whom one could follow to the end of the world. Then, as if Fate were determined to climax the fixity of his fame, came assassination! Here was the crowning touch, inexplicable as it was dastardly. A sublime martyrdom... fraught with consequences such as to immortalize his name forever.

Thus, with each fresh commemoration of his birth, the laurels of Lincoln multiply. Secretly, in wilderness shapings of obscurity and failure, his preeminence was moulded—through and out of a thousand unseen forces and influences, all having in them the significance of Destiny. New leaves crowd his coronal: such as Carl Sandburg's brilliant volumes, The War Years; current stage and screen dramas devoted to his deeds; and eulogies of press and radio accorded to no other figure of modern times. Such was the man himself, and such remains his memory, that in ultimate world-stature his fame may surpass that of any other American.

BROOKS ASSAILS ARROGANT RULE OF NEW DEALERS

Charges Assumption of Divine Right Mantle.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for United States senator, yesterday described the present Democratic régime as acting as tho guided by the ancient belief in the divine right of kings.

Brooks and his team mate, Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor, spoke at a meeting in the Du Sable High school, 48th and State streets, where tribute was paid to both Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass, the abolitionist. Former Congressman Oscar De Priest presided.

"The eternal struggle between two principles, one the common right of humanity, the other the divine right of kings, has been revived in America by the Democratic New Deal, Washington Pink and Red party," said Brooks.

Charges Destruction of Rights.

"While professing to have the rights of humanity in mind, they have been destroying the fundamental institutions that guarantee and protect human rights.

"They have been taking the powers of the government more and more into their own hands and now are using the tactics of the divine right of kings. The monopoly control of government has given them the power to levy taxes, pass laws, choose judges, name prosecutors, and appropriate and spend public funds.

"These powers have made them so arrogant that they now seek to tell the people of Illinois that a few men will name the candidates who will appear on the so-called Democratic ticket, and all the powers of our government will be used to deny the people the right to any other choice.

"If the common right of humanity is to be saved it must be preserved in the year 1940 by the people themselves. The rebuilding of a strong, virile Republican party by the people to equalize and divide the powers of their government is essential to the continuance of individual opportunity and the safeguarding of human rights in America."

In speaking of Douglass, who was born in slavery, Lyons attacked racial prejudice.

"We Americans abhor all forms of bigotry, including racial bigotry," he said. "The various forms may differ in name, but their philosophies and motivations are identical. They all thrive on hatred and ill will. They all array class against class.

"It is not the rich and powerful who suffer under the New Deal. It is the poor and under privileged, those that have been promised a more abundant life but instead have an ever increasing amount of their earnings taken from them in taxes."

Phone Number Held Omen.

James E. Hill, one of the Brooks-Lyons managers, announced that the new telephone number in the Hotel Sherman headquarters is Andover 1940.

"We put a hyphen in it, just about as it is spelled in the directory or in dialing—AND-over—and consider it a good omen," he explained. "1940 and over!"

Deneen Watson, one of the managers for Dwight H. Green, a Lyons opponent, challenged the straw vote figures given out Saturday by Lyons headquarters. He offered to pay half the cost of a state-wide poll taken by an independent organization if the Lyons backers would pay half.

Arnold Lund, Republican candidate for attorney general, issued a statement in reference to a speech on the radio tonight in connection with which he had challenged Gov. Horner to use time which he [Lund] had reserved for him. He contended that the governor should send a representative to speak for him. He also called Harry B. Hershey, the Democratic slate candidate for governor, a Charlie McCarthy for Horner.

Lund will speak over radio station WCFL at 8:45 o'clock this evening.

ALBERT PATRICK, OIL REFINER ONCE DOOMED TO DEATH, DIES AT 74

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 11 [Special].—Albert T. Patrick, who spent four years in prison under a death sentence for murder, came to Tulsa in 1913 and subsequently made a fortune in the oil refining business, died today. He was 74 years old.

Patrick was a New York lawyer in 1900 when his client, William M. Rice, an 82 year old Texas oil millionaire, died. Patrick was convicted in 1901 on the testimony of Rice's valet, who said he poisoned Rice at the request of Patrick and that Patrick was plotting to get control of Rice's 8 million dollar fortune.

Patrick was sentenced to die for the murder, but appeals kept him alive in the Sing Sing death house for four years. He won a commutation in 1906 and spent the next six years in lifers' row. A pardon was granted in 1912 by Gov. John A. Dix.

Patrick was a brother-in-law of the late John T. Millikin, St. Louis chemical manufacturer, whose interests in Tulsa he managed after his release from prison.

YOUTH, 17, LEAVES HOME; SWALLOWS POISON; BEGS AID

George Hunter Greenwell, a Milwaukee high school pupil, walked into the drug store in the Windermere hotel at 1636 East 56th street last evening. "Help me," he begged, "I've taken acid." Miss Marjorie Greenlee, 23 years old, the cashier, gave him an antidote. The student, who is 17 years old, was then taken to the Illinois Central hospital, where his candition was critical.

He said he had hitch hiked to Chicago. "I just had to get away from home," he said, "because nobody likes me."

The youth's mother, Mrs. Eva M. Greenwell, 2484 North Murray avenue, Milwaukee, was notified, and visited him at the hospital last night. She told police that they had had a dispute and he had left home in anger.

FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

Joseph Byrnes, 69 years old, was found dead of a heart attack yesterday in his home and iron work shop at 2103 Roosevelt road.

NEW ROOSEVELT SPENDING PLANS RAPPED BY TAFT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] in a radio debate on administration fiscal policies with Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.] contended tonight that President Roosevelt had "backslid" on the question of economy since submitting his budget recommendations to congress and now is opposing drastic reductions in federal spending.

Senator Taft.

As a result, Taft said, "advocates of economy in congress, including leaders of the President's party, are severely handicapped."

Byrnes replied that the budget should be balanced by a "surgeon and not a blacksmith" because 1937 had taught that "too drastic" reductions in a short period delayed recovery.

Taft, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said that in recent weeks Mr. Roosevelt had "vigorously protested the elimination by congress of two bureaus which the government could well do without," had protested cuts in the agriculture bill, and had made no protest against "budget increases initiated in congress."

Taft added that at Hyde Park, N. Y., on Feb. 5, Mr. Roosevelt had made it "abundantly clear that he does not favor balancing the budget by strict economy." At that time, Taft said, the President "disclosed himself again as an unquenchable advocate of the strange theory that the government can spend itself into prosperity" by attributing the recession of 1937 to what he termed a "sharp and sudden reduction in government spending."

The Ohio senator challenged this reasoning, asserting that the recession was caused by "too rapid increase in taxes, wages, and other costs of production, resulting directly from policies of the federal government."

Byrnes said that Republican business men now realize that until private industry furnishes more employment," there must be some public works." He added that the budget could not be balanced by indulging in generalities about "lack of confidence."

SLATE APPROVED BY DEMOCRATS OF COOK COUNTY

Mayor Hails Selection of Hershey.

The Democratic state slate put together Saturday in Springfield was formally indorsed yesterday by the party's Cook county organization without protest or discussion.

Called together by telegrams, the Cook county central committee met in the Morrison hotel under the chairmanship of P. A. Nash, one of the Springfield conferees. Mayor Kelly, holding a proxy, presented a resolution indorsing all of the Springfield slate except the two candidates for congressman at large and, with no further remarks, it was adopted unanimously.

Mayor Kelly explained that the resolution omitted the two choices for congressman at large—T. V. Smith, an incumbent, and State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis—because Lewis has not yet determined whether he will run.

Later Action Expected.

The mayor explained the local organization can act on this part of the slate when it is learned whether Smith's running mate will be Lewis or some one else.

Mayor Kelly was the only one who spoke on the resolution. He told some of the facts about the two days of secret discussion in Springfield which led to the slating of Harry B. Hershey for governor.

"I think the state committee, in choosing Hershey, acted in the best interests of party welfare," said Kelly. "The whole slate is one that we can recommend for whole hearted support. Hershey is a brilliant lawyer, a farmer, a friend of labor. He's much like Lincoln."

Pledges Fight for Roosevelt.

The mayor reiterated his frequent declaration that he will "fight for Roosevelt every inch of the way."

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, suggested the committee might indorse the county ticket, which is made up of Democratic incumbents.

Mayor Kelly replied that it was unnecessary because it generally is known the present officeholders are supported by the organization. The meeting then adjourned.

Commander of American Submarine Killed by Gun

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP).—Lieut. Julian K. Morrison, 35 years old, commander of the United States submarine Sea Lion, died today from a pistol wound which fellow officers said he received yesterday when a gun he was cleaning accidentally discharged. Morrison was decorated by Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison for heroic work in rescuing men trapped in the submarine Squalus disaster.

WOMAN DIES IN POLICE STATION.

Miss Margaret Day, 41 years old, 3111 South Wabash avenue, died of a heart ailment yesterday at the women's quarters in the central police state. She had been arrested Saturday for investigation.

Candidate's Wife

(Story in adjoining column.)

[Burchett studio, Springfield.]

Mrs. Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville, wife of the Democratic organization's candidate for governor.

Church Thief Jailed Again Day After End of 2d Term

Raymond Slattery, 24 years old, was released from the Bridewell last March after serving a year's sentence for stealing from St. Mary's Catholic church, 911 South Wabash avenue. Two weeks later he was arrested again and sent back to the Bridewell for stealing from St. Peter's Catholic church, 816 South Clark street. He got out Saturday and yesterday he was in custody again after he was found in the rectory of St. Vincent's Catholic church at 1010 Webster avenue.

THREAT TO STATE 'HARMONY' SLATE IS FADING AWAY

Barrett, Stelle and Lewis Expected to 'Go Along.'

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11 [Special].—Prospects of a major uprising against the so-called Democratic harmony slate diminished today.

Auditor Edward J. Barrett was left off the slate headed by Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville [for governor] and James M. Slattery, candidate for reelection to the United States senate. After declaring he would make the race for a third term on the issue of antibossism, Barrett returned to Chicago and nothing further has been heard from him here.

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, the second possibility for a place on an opposition slate, was put back in his present spot by the Kelly-Horner-Nash harmony slatemakers, but remained somewhat displeased, since he had been a leading candidate to succeed Gov. Henry Horner.

State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis is the third possibility for leadership of an opposition slate. He is disappointed over being designated for congressman at large when he had hoped for something higher on the ticket. He does not want to go to Washington.

Lewis indicated today that he will make a statement on Tuesday. Many believe he will announce his withdrawal from the ticket and that Gov. Horner will appoint him to some important post, possibly chairman of the commerce commission, which has been vacant for several months.

3D TERM SILENCE CALLED ONE MAN SITDOWN STRIKE

Cleveland, O., Feb. 11 [Special].—The Democratic party is confronted by Roosevelt's "one-man sitdown strike," Congressman J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania declared tonight before the Lincoln day dinner of the Cuyahoga county Republican committee. Congressman Ditter is chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, directing the G. O. P. campaign to capture control of the house of representatives in the 1940 elections.

"In Washington today, and thruout the nation, every vital problem of government is obscured by the fogs of the third term mystery," Ditter said. "The task of finding jobs for our 9,000,000 unemployed is submerged. The more abundant life is a forgotten shibboleth. The distress of American agriculture still is the New Deal's unfinished business."

WATER DAMMED BY ICE RAISES OHIO TEN FEET

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11 (AP).—A 20 foot head of water dammed behind ice at Madison, Ind., raised the Ohio river an average of 10 feet along a 100 miles front today.

Altho resulting levels were well below flood stage at all points, Lockmaster Graham Bondurant at Dam 39, Vevay, Ind., termed the situation serious and expressed fear for the area west to Louisville and beyond should the Madison gorge give way.

Temperatures moderated after a two inch wet snow overnight and further softening of packs thruout the area was expected. The river rose 9.6 feet overnight at Cincinnati to 23 feet. The stage at Dam 39, 65 miles west of Cincinnati, was fractionally less than 27 feet at 3 p. m. and rising 0.3 of a foot hourly. Down the river Dam 41 at Louisville reported 8.5 feet a short time before, with ice holding fast.

MRS. ROOSEVELT DISAGREES WITH HER RED FRIENDS

Reproves Their Stand on War Against Finland.

Russia would declare war on us or we on Russia is very remote."

Asked whether she thought that Christians who had a religious conviction that they should be pacifists if war came should be compelled to fight, Mrs. Roosevelt replied that she felt that of course members of groups like the Quakers should be exempted.

To another question about her attitude toward compulsory military drill, Mrs. Roosevelt said that she did not believe "in compulsory anything, whether it is compulsory military drill or compulsory health insurance."

Democrat Is Ejected.

Earlier in the evening, F. Stephen McArthur, president of the Young Democrats of New Jersey, was ejected from the meeting when he tried to present a resolution putting the congress on record as denouncing the Russian invasion of Finland. He had been ejected for the same reason Friday and tonight he repeated the effort while Abbott Simon, legislative director of the congress, was talking. He was escorted out by the special federal police in charge of the building.

Alfred M. Lilienthal, author of a anticommunist resolution rejected by the congress last July, challenged organization's claim to represent 4,500,000 youths. He said in a statement that the congress "is the greatest political hoax ever perpetrated in the name of American youth," and declared it represents "only a small handful of fellow travelers, pinks, and Reds."

"Betrayal of Millions."

"For the President and his wife to support such an organization is a betrayal of the millions of American youth who are unrepresented," he said.

He submitted letters in which, he said, responsible leaders of seven organizations listed by the congress as participating in its July conference declared their groups were not affiliated. These groups were the Christian endeavor, Y. W. C. A., American Baptist Publication society, youth division of the American Jewish Congress, Y. M. H. A., disciples of Christ and student volunteer movement.

DOUBLE SUICIDE SUSPECTED; HUNT HUSBAND'S BODY

Evidence in the hands of Dr. Paul Schmitt, coroner's physician, yesterday indicated the double suicide of a husband and a wife, altho the man's body has not been found. Dr. Schmitt found that Mrs. Mary Marble, 28 years old, ended her life Friday with poison in her home at 745 Dickens avenue. A note found on the bank of the Calumet river near 95th street indicated her husband, Jake, 30, also had ended his life the same day.

"Life has dealt me such a poor hand and left me so wretched and ill at heart that I guess I'll leave it all," the note said. It bore Marble's signature and address. David Adonizzi, bridge tender at 95th street, said there were footprints on the bridge railing. Coast guardsmen dragged the river but could not find the body.

Plan Wedding

Francesco Rizzo and Miss Nora E. Maioli.

Mishawaka, Ind., Feb. 11 [Special].—A shipboard romance in the summer of 1938 will be climaxed here Feb. 24 when Miss Nora E. Maioli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Maioli, becomes the bride of Francesco Rizzo, an officer of the Italian merchant marine and of the naval reserve. Miss Maioli is 21 years old and Rizzo is 30.

Three Gunmen Arrested for Attack on Woman

Three men were arrested by Hudson avenue police last night on charges of rape preferred by a young woman, 21 years old. They are Ernest Kummetz, 35 years old, and Carl Krasher, 20, both of 1557 Clybourn avenue, and Edward Lorenz, 29, of 4509 South Ashland avenue. The girl charged that Krasher menaced her with a revolver and that Lorenz menaced her with a knife. The three men denied the charges.

YOUNG MAN DIES IN FREAK CRASH OF TRUCK, 7 CARS

A freak accident involving seven automobiles and an interstate truck resulted in the death of a young man early today. He was Eugene Rosalini, 23 years old, 123 High street, Highwood.

The accident occurred in Skokie highway, just south of the County line road and west of Glencoe, when the truck, driven by Edward Tilasky of Milwaukee, Wis., skidded on the icy pavement and came to a broadside stop, blocking north and south lanes. The car in which Rosalini was riding, driven by Armando Lenzini, 26, of 36 Prairie street, Highwood, hit the truck. Rosalini's skull was fractured against the windshield. Lenzini was not hurt. Six other cars crashed into the truck or one another, but no one else was hurt.

Julius Butkiewicz, 54 years old, a laborer, was killed last night when he was crushed against a building wall by one of two cars in a collision. The accident occurred at George street and Sacramento avenue. Butkiewicz was walking to his home at 2930 North Sacramento avenue when the cars, driven by Kent Borgerson, 3006 Diversey avenue, and Howard C. Ferslew, 2139 Medill avenue, collided. Borgerson's car struck Butkiewicz.

Alois Najfus, 76, of 2454 South Spaulding avenue, died in St. Anthony's hospital of a skull fracture incurred Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile at 25th street and Spaulding avenue. The driver was Michael Chesler, 4506 28th street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 119 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 89 were killed in Chicago, where 2,538 were injured in the same period.

STREAMLINER KILLS 4.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP).—Four persons were killed tonight when the Alton railroad's streamlined "Ann Rutledge" passenger train struck their automobile at a grade crossing in Auburn, about 20 miles south of here. The dead were Henry Rossi, 24 years old; his wife, Una, and Joel Sinclair, 34, all of Virginia, Ill., and a woman identified as Miss Elizabeth Harrison of Beardstown, Ill. The train, northbound from St. Louis, Mo., to Chicago, was delayed for some time by the accident.

TORNADO'S TOLL OF DEAD STANDS AT 17 IN GEORGIA

Albany, Ga., Feb. 11 (AP).—Tornado damaged Albany sifted its ruins today, revised its death list to 17, one white woman and 16 Negroes, and set about rebuilding devastated property valued at from $5,000,000 to $9,000,000. About 1,000 people are homeless.

Red Cross Field Director James W. Cullens announced the revised death list. More than 300 persons were treated for injuries, he said. Travel within the damaged area was sharply restricted today under a martial law proclamation by Gov. E. D. Rivers.

Inquiry Launched in Fire Destroying Roof of Church

Fire destroyed the roof and caused damage of $10,000 yesterday to the Elim Swedish Methodist Episcopal church at 1015 Barry avenue. The cause of the blaze was not determined and Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan said he would ask for an investigation.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

MR. ROOSEVELT ON RUSSIA.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech before the so-called American Youth congress on Saturday constituted a desperate effort to undo the work of his own hands. For the better part of seven years he had cooperated warmly with communists in this country and with the bolshevik tyranny in Russia. Mr. Roosevelt obtained a substantial political advantage from these associations. Now, as a consequence of Stalin's alliance with Hitler and the resultant destruction of Poland, and more especially, because of the brutal assault upon Finland, Mr. Roosevelt has discovered that his previous friendship for communism is proving a most costly investment. He must therefore for political purposes appear to repudiate it as rapidly and as thoroly as he can.

The record which he is now seeking to conceal is a long one. Among the items in it are the recognition of Russia, his first major act in the field of foreign policy; his thwarted desire to cooperate with Russia in the Spanish civil war; his purchases of Russian gold at an inflated price; his declaration that the totalitarian régimes have something valuable to teach us; his employment of hundreds of communists and fellow travelers in government offices; his embittered opposition to Congressman Dies for daring to expose the numerous points of contact between the New Deal and the communists; his acceptance of $600,000 for campaign purposes from the C. I. O., in which the communists are strongly intrenched; his friendship for such men as Murphy of Michigan who were enjoying communist support.

These items constitute only a part of the record, but they are sufficient to suggest how intimate his relations with the communists were and how valuable the association was to both parties to the deal. As long as there was no political disadvantage in the arrangement, it persisted. Such communist influenced organizations as the Workers' alliance, the C. I. O., the numerous fellow traveler leagues, and the Youth congress itself had a friend in the White House. Indeed, most of them had two friends there. The Youth congress, in particular, owes much to the coddling it received from Mrs. Roosevelt.

Now Mr. Roosevelt is damning communism and communists with the kind of fervor which used to be condemned in his circle as red baiting, but it is doubtful if he can persuade the country of his conversion by this means alone. After all, it is only recently that he elevated Mr. Murphy to the Supreme court, the same Mr. Murphy whom he was delighted to honor for refusal to resist the communist uprisings in Michigan; and it was only a little longer ago that he attacked the Dies committee for exposing communism in government offices.

Something more than words of condemnation will be needed; something which will give the appearance of a genuine opposition. The conviction of Earl Browder could be made to serve the President's new purpose. Mr. Browder himself has no doubt on the point, and said so in his speech to his followers immediately after his conviction. He had given the New Deal the full measure of his assistance. He had contributed votes, party workers, and helpful advice. He had counseled the New Dealers against a too precipitate approach to communist goals. He had done all that he could to reëlect Mr. Murphy. The assistance was welcomed, he intimated, until recently. The inference is unmistakable. Now that Poland and Finland have been invaded and communist associations have become a major political handicap, Mr. Roosevelt, as candidate or as party leader, must go to great lengths to establish his dislike for communists.

The recent conduct of John L. Lewis serves the same purpose. Mr. Lewis has denounced the President as an incompetent who has solved none of the problems which confronted him. Mr. Lewis has expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt cannot be reëlected and has said he will not have the support of the C. I. O. if he runs. Shortly after the President addressed the Youth congress, Mr. Lewis spoke to the same audience and in his speech took occasion to express his scorn of Mr. Roosevelt's observations regarding Finland.

The question arises whether Mr. Lewis is not playing a shrewd game. Certainly his men of violence owe much to the New Deal and his complaints that he hasn't received his $600,000 worth accordingly do not ring true. If by seeming to oppose his C. I. O. to the President he can persuade large numbers of voters to believe that Mr. Roosevelt is no friend of violence in the labor movement and of communism in the government, Mr. Lewis will have performed a service of great value for which he can expect to be rewarded in due time.

In this connection it is worthy of note that the photographers caught a picture of Mr. Lewis cordially shaking hands with Mrs. Roosevelt as he left the platform on Saturday. That doesn't suggest that the rift between the C. I. O. and the White House is as wide or as deep as Mr. Lewis' words might suggest to the uninitiated. It does suggest that Mr. Roosevelt and his friends are doing their utmost to rescue Mr. Roosevelt from the odium which his attachment to the bolsheviks has earned him.

LINCOLN IN POLITICS.

Lincoln was 23 years old and he had been in the New Salem community seven months when he issued an address to the people and tried for a place in the Illinois legislature, seated then at the Vandalia capital. He received all but three of the 208 preferences of the neighborhood voters, but was defeated. In these town meeting days the vote was taken by word of mouth. The young man was known and liked in his home village, but was not as yet known thruout Sangamon county.

Springfield learned more of him when he helped pole an Ohio river steamboat, which had come up from Cincinnati to Beardstown under its own power, on up the Sangamon river to the present capital which, finding itself a port, had an hour of excitement. Lincoln as one of the navigators increased the number of his admirers. That counted for him in 1834. He was elected to the legislature. The public life of the Prairie President had begun. But when he wanted to run for congress in 1843 and take a step up in politics he couldn't get the nomination. The election was in 1843 instead of 1842 because Illinois had not apportioned its congresssional districts.

What Lincoln lost in 1843 he won in 1846. He was nominated by acclamation and elected. He had one term in congress and as a Whig saw his own constituency, the one Whig district in Illinois, going with the dissolution of the party.

This is not the record of a popular vote getting politician. Lincoln perceived it was not. He was ready to give up the practice of politics for the practice of law. He took heart later and tried for the United States senate in 1855 and encountered another heartbreak. Fusion of parties was in progress, but it was not where he could use it. He was again in a profound melancholy. Melancholy is a characteristic of this extraordinary man.

When he offered again for the United States senate, against Stephen Douglas, his ideas were clarified and he had a new party affiliation. He had joined the Republicans. The debates with Douglas did not take him to the United States senate. He failed again. But this time he was on his feet. He had measured his great Democratic opponent the probable next President, and had thought it possible that Abraham Lincoln might himself enter the door of the White House.

A great speech in Cooper union in New York confirmed the brilliance of his debates with Douglas. A few months later in the Wigwam in Chicago the reputedly uncouth man of the prairies was nominated as the Republican candidate for the presidency over Seward. In the election he received about 40 per cent of the popular vote and a majority of the electoral college. Against three other parties and three other candidates of wide renown this showing may not seem bad. But it was not an evidence of great popularity. Opinions were fixed. They were furious and beyond compromise. Each man got the votes of his section.

Lincoln thought it quite probable that he would not be reëlected in 1864. His modesty, his self-analysis, and his patriotism forced him to consider this outcome and work while he could for the preservation of the Union. Sherman took Atlanta and marched on to Savannah. Sheridan swept thru the Shenandoah. The incredulous north, not knowing that it had been presented with victory a year and more before by Grant, recovered courage.

The party which had declared the war a failure was defeated. Lincoln carried all but three states and 21 electoral votes. Some historians have referred to the result as a landslide. It was the War President's greatest political triumph and he had not expected it. He had stood aside in the campaign. If the people of the north wanted another man they should have the other man, altho he did remark that it might not be a good thing to swap horses while crossing a stream.

The great Republican did not think of himself as a great vote getter and getting votes was not a part of his greatness. It was not an essential qualification and it was not his greatest asset. His great popularity came after his death.

WAYS AND MEANS.

[Providence Bulletin.]

We are pleased by the action of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives in determining the correct pronunciation of the word "tomato." This is one of the outstanding issues in the daily lives of all of us, and it is gratifying to have a congressional committee pass on it. Of course, it has not yet come before the entire house of representatives, but there seems little reason to doubt that the committee's attitude would be supported by an overwhelming majority.

It was Republican Representative Allen Treadway of Massachusetts who raised the question by giving the pronunciation "tomahto." And that moved Mr. Cannon, Florida Democrat, to inquire if Mr. Treadway meant "tomayto," whereupon Mr. Treadway firmly insisted that he meant "tomahto." Then Mr. Cannon appealed to his Democratic brethren of the committee, and with one voice they favored "tomayto." So the Florida congressman declared a majority for the long "a" and told Mr. Treadway: "You mean "tomayto."

In a controversy of this character we find ourselves in perfect alignment with the Democratic majority, especially as its decision is in the spirit of Americanism and has the unqualified support of Webster. Either pronunciation is correct, but the dictionary gives preference to the long "a."

Here was a Democratic victory, but the issue was not of a partisan nature, between a New England Republican and a Florida Democrat; it was a conflict between regional idioms. Mr. Treadway might be a Democrat and still the chances would be that he would say "tomahto." Most people in this part of the country do call it that, regardless of their political bias. Yet no one has ever explained why a tomato should be a "tomahto," while a potato is never a "potahto." Probably it is just one of the insidious influences of Boston on New England habits of speech.

LINCOLN'S OLD MAN.

"Abraham begat Mordecai, Josiah, and Thomas; and Thomas begat Sarah and Abraham."

The annals of Lincoln's forebears are almost as barren of detail as this sentence in the style of the Book of Genesis, but today our thoughts dwell upon Old Tom, toward whom the historians have not been any too kind. After all, he not only begat Young Abe but he also brought him into Illinois.

He must have been like a Boer farmer of the Great Trek, always eager to be moving toward better land and wider horizons. This migratory instinct, which the Lincoln experts seem to class with the wanderlust of hoboes, was a characteristic of the men of the American frontier, and but for it this nation would not have achieved its destiny. It was a driving force, and as inherited by his son it took the form of law books, politics, and the translation to Washington.

Think of the trees that Tom Lincoln chopped down, the farm and household equipment that he made, the log cabins that rose from the toil of his hard and clever hands! He built cabins as if he were Paul Bunyan, and if any records for this form of achievement had been kept he might be found to be the national champion.

Two cabins in Kentucky, one in Indiana, four in Illinois—that makes seven; and there were probably several more that have been missed. He was easily a ten or twelve log cabin man, and when he built them they stayed built; hence the shrines about which Philip Kinsley has been writing in THE TRIBUNE. So we defy the historians, who are not enthusiastic about Tom Lincoln. We shout: "What a man!"

Tom's last cabin, near the hamlet of Campbell, Coles county, Illinois, made a public appearance at Chicago's World's Fair of 1893 and then vanished. Its old foundations now support a reconstruction in the Lincoln Log Cabin state park. About five miles away, in a small cemetery by the roadside, are the graves of Old Tom and his second wife, Sarah. They were originally marked by a sandstone shaft, which has been destroyed by souvenir hunters. A new monument was erected in 1924.

President-elect Lincoln visited the grave, with his stepmother, on Jan. 31, 1861.

GINGERBREAD AND LINCOLN.

("I don't s'pose anybody on earth likes gingerbread better'n I do—and gets less'n I do."—Lincoln.)

The dust of years soon blurs the paths we leave
As younger feet tread down the older ways;
But still his long dim footprints seem to weave
Themselves with ours, and with the passing days
His gaunt and homely shadow longer grows
Beside our own to show the road ahead.
Strange that our prairie soil should now compose
Such legends out of all he did and said,
And yet we recognize his growing claim
Upon our destiny because he shared
Our hunger and our want; his noblest fame
Is that, denied so much, he somehow dared
To prove that from the things that fate denies
The great in heart may wrest the highest prize.

The Immortal Words of Heinegabubeler.

[Text on reverse of business card of Heinegabubeler's saloon, famous in Chicago from 1893 to 1920; printed by popular request.]

"A palace of illusion that are illusions, not; the glittering glory of the man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo outdone in real life. Chicago leads the world in a wineroom that is a marvel of artistic elegance—I don't think.

"A building in the very heart of Chicago's business center, the exterior of glass, brick, air, and atmosphere, a blaze of electric effulgence the like you never saw—nor never will see; the interior a pretty fairyland, nit, where sawdust, sand dust, and butts are trodden underfoot. . . . Europe, Irope, Orope, Mexico, and Waukegan were all drawn upon for the material from which to construct this dream of grandeur. Nothing to compare with it between New York and Hoboken, or in fact Oshkosh. Plaster Paris itself cannot produce its like.

"Thousands of dollars in gold and silver coin used in construction of floors and counters. Wainscoatings of fine French, Italian and Dago marbles, floors of selected onyx laid in mosaics, with reproductions of birds and animals. The bar of mahogany and enapigany [sic], silver and gold, inlaid with pearls and mauds [sic]. A fountain of pure silver, tapestries, bronzes, and vases of great cost and rare beauty, novel electric devices all combine to make the SALOON SUPERB of America a triumph of artistic skill."

[All of which has been paralleled, in the present era, by propaganda for new movie theaters and the Architects' Ball.]

SO GREW A LINCOLN.

From out of cracks such brave things grow;
A flower sweet, a tuft of grass,
Sometimes a tree from bare split rock,
Its roots spread out in tangled mass.
No kindly rains have nurtured these,
They have not known the feel of space;
They fight for food and learn to live
On the chance crumbs that reach their place.

From out of cracks a Lincoln grew.
He did not ask rich gifts from life,
But faced the world with steadfast faith
And carried on through bitter strife.
From out of cracks come fine, strong things
That stand above the rest like kings.

DIABETES, A PERSONAL PROBLEM.

DIABETES has not been conquered—no, not by any means. Altho considerable progress has been made in the last few years, nevertheless, much remains to be learned. We can say, however, that because of the discovery of insulin tens of thousands are living and well today who otherwise would be chronic invalids—or doomed to an early death.

What is the nature of the trouble and how does it behave? We must recall first of all that the pancreas is the organ at fault. Normally it produces at least two secretions, one of which—pancreatic juice—is poured into the intestine. This substance contains powerful enzymes and is vital to the digestion of food. The other type—equally indispensable—is manufactured by certain groups of cells within the structure and is absorbed directly into the blood. The output depends somewhat upon the health of all the endocrine glands—the thyroid, the adrenals, the pituitary, and perhaps others. We can understand, then, that if there is something wrong with the pituitary, for example, we may be facing a failure on the part of the pancreas. In fact, tumors of the pituitary are often complicated by diabetes.

As a rule, most patients respond satisfactorily to the use of insulin [obtained from the pancreas of animals] which enables the physician to regulate the blood sugar to the point where the victim is well nourished and is not throwing off glucose. As we know, the circulating fluid can hold only about so much of this sweet material, and when the percentage rises too high it "spills over" and is removed via the kidneys.

Most of us are familiar with the routine symptoms. Usually there is great thirst, attended with the excretion of large quantities of urine, some loss of weight, and lessened resistance of the skin. Not infrequently there is definite evidence that the tendency to the disease, at least, is hereditary. We may say, then, that in the presence of excessive thirst or a profuse outflow of urine the latter should be examined for sugar. Of course, a blood test is even more advantageous as it will show elevated glucose levels even tho the individual is fasting.

Treatment—except in complicated cases—is not difficult. It consists in diet, the employment of insulin, exercise, and a generous allowance of vitamins. With every patient of good intelligence the plan of management should be explained, as without cooperation much time will be lost—and perhaps serious damage may be inflicted.

The menus must be adhered to strictly. To break over the set régime can wreck a well thought out schedule and may deter recovery for weeks or months or require larger doses of insulin. Every competent medical adviser knows that a food regimen that is acceptable to one sufferer may be too much or too little for another. Inasmuch as the disorder is individual, each case must be treated as a special problem after the response to insulin and edibles has been measured.

There are some unusual effects which must be watched critically. Most afflicted persons are obliged to be far more careful about infections, colds, influenza, etc. Should illness occur—regardless of the cause—the family doctor must be called at once and—even before he arrives—an enema may be given and the patient kept warm and in bed. A glass of orange juice can do no harm.

Cevitamic acid [which supplies vitamin C] and thiamin chloride [a source of B1] before each meal will prove helpful in lowering the blood sugar. To put it another way, these elements enable diabetics to use a little less insulin or a little more food. Exercise is also important. Every contraction of a muscle consumes oxygen and some glucose, and it is essential, therefore, that enough activity be engaged in to destroy the carbohydrates ingested. If one is a "sitter" the insulin dosage may be decreased prior to strenuous exertion, as work will demand a goodly share of the glucose in the circulation.

All in all, we have a malady which must be brought under control as quickly as possible. Fortunately, but few will be faced with problems that our knowledge of the ailment cannot solve.

HEART MURMUR.

A. M. writes: What is a heart murmur? What are the chances for cure?

REPLY.

Usually a soft blowing sound which originates at the blood passes thru an injured valve. This type is termed "organic" and cannot be corrected. A functional murmur may be associated with anemia and is unrelated to a valve abnormality. If the blood condition is corrected, the sound disappears.

Physicians pay far less attention to murmurs than to the strength of the heart muscle. Do not become overly heart conscious.

SCARLET FEVER.

C. B. H. writes:

1. How many days after exposure to scarlet fever does the attack begin?
2. Can a person be a carrier without knowing it?

REPLY.

1. The usual incubation period is three to five days.
2. Yes.

VITAMIN A DEFICIENCY.

S. G. writes: Does drinking carrot juice improve the sight?

REPLY.

Only in cases of night blindness due to the absence of vitamin A.

SOMETHING TO BE LOOKED INTO.

Wittenberg, Wis., Feb. 8.—The President has asked congress to approve another experimental program for federal construction of 50 hospitals in rural areas not now provided with such facilities. It might be well for congress to investigate the situation in Michigan where hospitals built last year by the WPA now stand empty for want of equipment.

Furthermore, with the millions of people afflicted with headaches, weak hearts, shrunken stomachs and distracted nerves over the antics of the New Deal, a hospital at every crossroad in the country could not provide accommodation for the waiting patients. J. W. GATES.

HUMANITARIAN POLICIES.

Marietta, O., Feb. 7.—It is very inspiring to see that our government is aiding the cause of humanity by imposing a "moral embargo" of munitions of war, or of raw materials that enter into their manufacture, against nations that bomb civilians.

No doubt our administration will now take the second step in this splendid program by embargoing all shipments of food to nations which make the starving of civilians [as by blockade] a part of their war policy.

GRAHAM N. GLEYSTEEN.

IN PERSPECTIVE.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—R. N.'s letter in this column states that it is the United States' moral duty to give all the aid she can to Finland. If this be so, then it was right for the other democracies, Spain, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland, to get this same moral and material support from us, and also from those two leading European democracies, England and France. That help was not furnished.

Therefore, I agree with Vice President Garner that we stay out of the Finnish-Russian situation and observe our neutrality law. MRS. M. B.

ALL OR NONE.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—If Father Coughlin's radio script is to be so severely censored, then we, the American radio audience, must demand that commentators such as Winchell, Kaltenborn, and others must also submit their broadcasting material to the most rigid censorship, because their radio comments are of a highly controversial nature and their remarks are often very offensive to a great number of listeners. V. D.

ENDANGERING OUR INSTITUTIONS.

Harvey, Ill., Feb. 8.—We would not be endangering our institutions by reëlecting President Roosevelt. The safety of our institutions rests on the ballot box. Our nation will be free and self governing as long as votes are honestly cast and untainted by bribery or coercion, regardless of the number of terms any public officer may have. C. S.

A PROGRAM FOR FARMERS.

Mendota, Ill., Feb. 8.—On what grounds do farmers demand special privileges, not accorded by government to the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and the consumer, such as guaranteed prices for farm products, soil conservation payments, government loans, parity payments so called; in short cash from the taxpayers' pockets? It ill becomes the farmer to pose as a beggar, instead of a competent business man.

If it is claimed that certain special interests like organized unions are obtaining government backing, the farmers should support a constitutional amendment to stop it and assure equal treatment to all, viz: "All laws, acts, or conspiracies to destroy competition or to fix prices for commodities or services are invalid and prohibited."

Two wrongs do not make a right, so instead of seeking government pay, every self-respecting farmer, consumer, and toiler should vote against special privileges to any one. GEORGE WESTON.

PLANK SUGGESTED.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—I suggest you add No. 9 to your platform for Chicago for 1940: "Take the Racketeer Out of the Union." A. J. C.

LEAVE TO PRINT.

Knox, Ind., Feb. 8.—The Feb. 6 copy of the Congressional Record contained in the appendix just 73 pages composed of campaign speeches, made over the air and otherwise at various times and places; editorials of a partisan nature, and otherwise, from numerous newspapers, and other utterances made at various times and places. All this balderdash was placed in the Congressional Record by request of senate and house members. At $60 a page, this stuff cost the taxpayer just $4,380. Economy minded congressmen ought to correct this flagrant and wanton expenditure of money. JOHN L. MOORMAN.

PICASSO.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 8.—Close the Art institute; send the directors to Kankakee. Lunacy is sanity; putrescence perfume; abortion true birth. Over and over again they have proven that they do not know what true art is and have no capacity to know. Every exhibition of modern art shrieks this. The Picasso nightmares are the last and worst. Yet the minnow-minded culture gadders measure their advancement by their silly cackle of approval. Wonderful insight beyond common ken! LOREN H. B. KNOX.

DAMAGE SUIT.

Chicago, Feb. 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—Nearly two years ago my husband's car hit another. One of those who was riding in that car got hurt and brought a lawsuit against my husband, and now he has a judgment against my husband. My husband and I have property but we conveyed our property to one member of our family 10 months after the lawsuit was filed in the Superior court.

1. Can they bring another lawsuit against my husband [2] forcing us by law to transfer our property to our name again? There is such a state law.
3. In what court can they bring the other lawsuit?
4. Can they bring one in the city courts?
5. Does it have to be in the Superior court again?
6. How long will it take a defendant to answer to the creditors' bill? M. J.

1. Of course they can bring suit.
2. In general a debtor who has given away his assets is regarded as defrauding his creditors, and the gifts can be retraced under a creditor's bill.
3. It seems probable that the suit would be brought in the Circuit or Superior court.
4. See 3.
5. It is not clear why you attach any importance to this question.
6. It might be a few days. See 5.

CLAIM ON ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—Would like to have some legal information in regard to an estate, as administratrix of this estate, and also as an heir. At the time of beginning of probation there were only two heirs—namely: myself and an aunt. My aunt's share was signed over to me. Therefore, I did not file all of my expenses, as I had to take a mortgage to cover expenses which occurred thru illness of deceased.

1. Now, after it had gone thru probate, I find that there are other heirs in the old country. What I want to know is [2] can I put in my claim for additional expenses, as they are considerably more than the amount of mortgage I have taken, and also if I produce witness to the effect that I was to be the sole heir to this property?
3. Could I file suit in court of Illinois?
4. Joint tenancy had been drawn up, but not signed before death of deceased.

1. Under Illinois law as it was up to the beginning of this year, creditors were allowed a year in which to file their claims. The present time is nine months from the beginning of probate. It is probable that you are too late to file a claim as a creditor.
2. See 1.
3. It seems probable that you could dig up some ground on which a suit might be filed, but this isn't saying much.
4. This would be ineffective.

How Our States Got Their Names

31. NORTH CAROLINA.

The Carolinas, historians say, were first named Carolina in honor of Charles IX. of France, the name was changed to Carolana in a charter granted in 1629 by Charles I. of England, and finally again became Carolina from the time of Charles II. of England. North Carolina was one of the original states.

North Carolina state seal. Figures of goddesses of liberty [left] and plenty. Date above their heads [May 20, 1775] is that of Mecklenburg declaration of independence, first in the colonies. State motto is in lower edge.

The nicknames applied to North Carolina include the Old North, Tarheel, and Turpentine state, and the Land of the Sky. The Old North cognomen alludes to North Carolina's position in relation to her sister state. The tarheel name is said to have been given to some North Carolina soldiers during the civil war. Much turpentine is produced in the state, and there are many high mountain peaks.

The state motto is "Esse Quam Videri" [to be rather than to seem]. The state song is "The Old North State"; the state bird, the chickadee.

Dear Mr McMahon

You no doubt will be interested to know that our business for the month of January 1940 showed an increase of 30.5% over January 1939.

As we placed 92% of our newspaper advertising in the Chicago Tribune last month, the results show that our decision was an excellent one.

Yours very truly,

FURTHER evidence that Tribune readers make up Chicago's largest, most responsive market for retailers is to be found in the letter above.

In January, last year, Maurice L Rothschild used 52,912 lines of advertising in all Chicago newspapers. Of this total, the Tribune received 37,803 lines—or 71.4%.

In January, this year, the store used 68,315 lines of advertising in all Chicago newspapers—an increase of 15,403 lines. Of this total, the Tribune received 62,783 lines—or 91.9%. This was an increase of 24,980 lines—or 66.1%.

Maurice L Rothschild's sales during January showed an increase of 30.5% over the same month last year.

As these figures indicate, you sell more when you build your advertising program around the Tribune.

Every day of the week, the Tribune has more than 1,000,000 circulation. Right in Chicago and suburbs, the Tribune, every day of the week, sells more than 800,000 copies. This is from 335,000 to 500,000 more copies than are sold in metropolitan Chicago by other Chicago newspapers.

No advertiser, no group of advertisers, ever has pushed to the limit the huge buying power represented by Tribune circulation. Maurice L Rothschild for years has been one of the largest users of Tribune space. Yet, by making greater use of Tribune sales power, Maurice L Rothschild secured greater returns.

No matter what you are selling . . . or to whom you sell . . . you can sell more by building your advertising program around the Tribune. Ask a Tribune representative to give you complete information.

31 ACTIVE YEARS LEAVE LINCOLN'S MARK ON ILLINOIS

Trails Criscross State; Memorials Dot It.

[This is the final article in a series by Philip Kinsley describing the trails and memorials of Abraham Lincoln's life for the 52 years that he spent on the frontiers of Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois. The series is intended as a guide for Lincoln pilgrims.]

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. [Special].—Central Illinois is criscrossed with Lincoln trails and dotted with memorials of his 31 active years in this state as legislator, lawyer, and candidate. He was always close to this earth. It clung around his toes as a boy and settled on his saddlebags as a circuit riding lawyer. He was close to the men of earth, farmers and laborers, and felt the mystic strength and healing touch of the woods, the streams, and the prairies. He, too, went into the wilderness and communed with his heavenly Father in times of stress.

From New Salem and Springfield the first oft-traveled trail of Lincoln was to the old capital of Vandalia. This is reached now on route 24 to Pana and on route 51, a matter of 68 miles. In his day it was traveled by horse or stage coach. He was elected first in 1834 and served four terms, two of them in Vandalia. In 1837 Springfield was selected as the capital, largely by the work of the "Long Nine" group of legislators, of which Lincoln was the leader.

Old Capital Is Landmark.

Vandalia has forgiven Lincoln for this now and has as its most treasured landmark the old capital, built in 1836, in which Lincoln sat. It is of colonial type of architecture, strongly made of hand hewn logs. It is now getting its face lifted and is to be refurnished as it was in Lincoln's time and kept as a state shrine.

It was here that the first Illinois school laws were passed and the act incorporating the "town of Chicago." It was in this time, also, that northern Illinois was saved from being made a part of Wisconsin. It contains many of the original items of furniture, including the stairs to the upper chamber where the senate and assembly sat. The hand hewn bench at the back, uncomfortable as an old fashioned church pew, where Lincoln sat, is pointed out by Custodian Rollie Harris, and the desk used by Stephen A. Douglas. The old gavel marks, showing deep poundings, are on the speaker's desk.

Lincoln studied law hard while in the legislature and on March 1, 1837, was granted admission to the bar. It is related that on the day that he went to receive this, dressed in new clothes, he saw a pig mired in the mud near the old Kaskaskia bridge. He passed on, unwilling to soil his clothes, but two miles away turned back, waded into the mud and rescued the pig.

Trail Passes Mother's Grave.

From Vandalia one may cut across on the old national road between Washington and St. Louis and reach Vincennes, where the main Lincoln Memorial trail comes out of Kentucky and Indiana. Here the route is north and west thru Decatur to Springfield. In Indiana this trail passes the grave of Lincoln's mother, deep in the woods of a 1,365 acre park, and south of Mattoon, in the roadside cemetery of Shiloh church the grave of Thomas Lincoln, his father, and Sarah Bush Lincoln, his stepmother.

Outside of this trail, now a national memorial highway, one of the most heavily traveled Lincoln trails is that which is called the Eighth Judicial district, where he rode every year, trying hundreds of law cases. This was marked out by Lincoln himself in red lines on a map published in 1843. He drew a zigzag route out of Springfield to the following points:

Springfield to Postville, to Tremont, to Metamora, and to Bloomington, where he usually stopped, altho it was not then in the circuit. From that town on to Dewitt, to Monticello, to Urbana, to Danville, to Paris, to Sullivan, to Shelbyville, to Taylorville and back to Springfield. The circuit, county lines, and county seats have been changed somewhat from that time, and had been changed even when Lincoln drew his map. Any tour of his circuit riding days must include Mount Pulaski and Beardstown, where important original memorials have been preserved.

Where Noted Lawyers Gathered.

The Metamora courthouse, 15 miles northeast of Peoria on route 116, is the only original building left in the old circuit. This stands in the town square as a pre-civil war monument where Lincoln, Douglas, Robert G. Ingersoll, Adlai Stevenson, Judge David Davis, and other noted lawyers foregathered. Here they fought in court, swapped stories as they sat on the benches under the courtyard trees or in the Metamora House across the square.

There are a table and a cupboard from the old tavern in the courthouse, which is now a museum and sanctuary presided over by Miss Lilian Theena, custodian. The original bench and rails and some original chairs are still there; also a table out of which a notch had been cut so that Lincoln could get his knees under it. The museum also has more remote pioneers in the form of coral, trilobites, and a mastadon bone dug up along the Mackinaw river in the county. It is filled with relics of pioneer days.

The Mount Pulaski courthouse, a two story structure built in 1847, has also been acquired by the state and restored to look as it did when Lincoln practiced law there. This is northeast of Springfield or northwest of Decatur, about 30 miles by either route.

Courthouse Still in Use.

Beardstown, original seat of Cass county, western terminus of the Lincoln memorial trail, still uses the red brick courthouse where Lincoln, on May 7, 1858, at a time when he was engaged in preparing for his contest with Douglas for the United States senate, defended Duff Armstrong in the famous trial in which he proved the main prosecution witness a liar by the almanac.

The Beardstown Women's club has erected a marker here "in memory of Abraham Lincoln who for the sake of a mother in distress, cleared her son, Duff Armstrong, of the charge of murder in this hall of justice."

Armstrong was the son of Jack Armstrong, whom Lincoln had beaten in a wrestling match at New Salem and who had later served under Lincoln in the Black Hawk war, and Aunt Hannah Armstrong, who had mended Lincoln's clothes in New Salem days and comforted him after the death of Ann Rutledge. He charged her nothing for his services. The witness against Duff testified what he saw by moonlight and Lincoln produced an almanac showing the moon was not bright enough that night for such a vision.

Boulder Marks Speech Site.

The Broeker drug store across the square, where Lincoln bought the almanac, is still in existence, altho it has been moved two doors from its old site. A boulder in the square marks the site of a Lincoln speech here on Aug. 12 of that same year. This was where Lincoln said "A house divided against itself cannot stand," according to the marker.

No effort has been made to make a memorial out of this courthouse. It is the city hall now and cases are still tried there. The original bench and bar and possibly a jury chair or two are there.

Scenes of the series of seven debates with Douglas in 1858 form another Illinois Lincoln tour, altho Old Main hall in Galesburg, at the entrance of which one of the debates was held, and where he spoke to 20,000 people, is the only original building left. The rest are sites marked by plaques or monuments.

There are few events in Illinois history that have stirred the people as did these debates, in which Lincoln emerged as the leader of the slowly forming forces that led to the emancipation proclamation, forces that had been forming ever since Thomas Jefferson warned against the effects and the result of slavery in this country.

Where Debates Were Held.

The debates, all in 1858, were held as follows: Ottawa, Aug. 21; Freeport, Aug. 27; Jonesboro, Sept. 15; Charleston, Sept. 18; Galesburg, Oct. 7; Quincy, Oct. 13, and Alton, Oct. 15.

Lincoln said at Ottawa: "This is the issue. It is the eternal struggle between two principles—right and wrong—thruout the world. The one is the common right of humanity, the other is the divine right of kings. It is the same principle in whatever shape it develops itself. It is the same spirit that says 'you toil and work to earn bread, and I'll eat it!'"

Ottawa has marked the site in Washington park with a boulder. Freeport has a boulder at North State and East Douglas streets marking the site where Lincoln said: "This government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free." The Jonesboro site has a marker on the fairgrounds. So has Charleston. Quincy has erected an impressive Lorado Taft bas-relief monument in the center of town as its memorial. Alton has marked its site in a park at the foot of Market street.

Challenges Douglas to Debate.

Lincoln made many other speeches during this campaign. At Clinton he told the people that "You can fool all the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time." Douglas also spoke at Clinton and among other things said that Lincoln had run a grocery store and sold whisky.

"The only difference between Judge Douglas and myself," said Lincoln later, "is that while I was behind the bar he was in front of it."

It was after this that Lincoln wrote a challenge to debate and Douglas accepted.

Other points on the Illinois Lincoln tour map are Dixon, where there is a monument to Lincoln as a soldier; Bloomington, where the state Republican party was organized in 1856 at an anti-Nebraska bill convention, and where Lincoln delivered his famous "lost speech," one in which the reporters were so overwhelmed by the eloquence of the man that they forgot to take notes. In Danville he maintained a law office in 1852 with Ward Hill Lamon. The site of this is the Barnum building in the square.

Says Good-By to Illinois.

All the Illinois trails lead in and out of Springfield, and here it was on the morning of Feb. 11, 1861, that he said good-by to Illinois in the Great Western railway station, now a site in the freight yards near Tenth and Monroe streets.

Lincoln was on his way to visit his stepmother at the old farm in Coles county and then on to Washington and the war and his own martyrdom. He may have felt something of this in the inner vision of his mystic nature, for as he took off his top hat and faced the crowd at the station he was near to tears.

"My friends," he said, "no one, not in my situation, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place and the kindness of these people I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century, and have passed from a young to an old man. Here my children have been born, and one is buried. I now leave, not knowing when or whether ever I may return, and with a task before me greater than that which rested upon Washington.

"Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him, I cannot succeed. Trusting in Him who can go with me, and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell."

The tomb remains. Its granite obelisk lifts high above the trees of Oakridge cemetery, a vast park of hilly woodland so familiar to Lincoln in his home in the west.

Inside the square supporting structure, which is surmounted by bronze statuary of Lincoln and the soldiers who stood behind him in splendid action, is the sarcophagus chamber. This is semi-circular, of St. Genevieve golden marble, with black pilasters and frieze. The light from bronze grills falls upon the replicas of famous Lincoln statues, upon the markers of the family graves, upon the President's flag and the flags of the seven states thru which the Lincoln family passed westward from colonial days, upon the stone coffin, and the words of Stanton engraved in red Arkansas fossil granite above:

"Now He Belongs to the Ages."

FEDERAL GRANTS USURP POWERS, PHYSICIANS TOLD

Aid Funds Force Laws on States, Says Doctor.

The powers of state and local governments are being usurped by a national burocracy thru a federal system of grants in aid for the prevention of everything from forest fires to syphilis, Dr. R. G. Leland, medical economic director of the American Medical association, charged yesterday.

The system of grants is so highly developed, Dr. Leland said, that the federal government not only offers a program and cash to operate it but sends lobbyists into the state legislatures to influence the passage of ready made bills to enable the state to qualify for grants.

Speaks Before Conference.

Dr. Leland spoke before the national conference on medical service in the Palmer House. The conference is made up of private physicians of the midwest.

"Since the philosophy of grants in aid has become prevalent in federal legislation," said Dr. Leland, "it has been necessary for most states to enact laws to provide funds and methods of administration to qualify for federal allotments.

"The benefits that have come thru the expenditure of the combined federal-state funds have often been accompanied by an additional strain on the tax structure of the state and have always been accompanied by an unavoidable amount of federal control of the proposed programs."

Quotes Calvin Coolidge.

Quoting Calvin Coolidge, Dr. Leland said: "'There are always those who are willing to surrender local self-government and turn over their affairs to some national authority for a payment of money out of the federal treasury. They are bartering away their freedom. We believe that the municipality, the state, and the nation will each be better off if they look after themselves.'"

He said that $19,155,000 had been appropriated under the social security act for health and welfare services for the year ending next June 30.

"If the pattern of financing by federal grants in aid is to become a fixed part of the distribution of medical and health services," he said, "the medical profession should consider well the values that may be lost by the gradual usurpation of control by a central authority."

OBITUARIES

Herman Hefter.

Herman Hefter, a retired accountant, died yesterday in his home in the Fairfax hotel. He was 75 years old. Mr. Hefter was born in Michigan Bluff, Cal., and came to Chicago in 1873. He was interested in early Chicago history and recently presented a collection of old Chicago playbills and theater programs to the University of Chicago. He had served as secretary of the Home for Aged Jews, was a Mason, and a member of Sinai congregation. He and his wife, Rose, who survives, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last October. Mr. Hefter also leaves two sons, Ralph and Norman Hefter, and two sisters, Miss Florence Hefter and Miss Celia Hefter.

THOMAS FITZPATRICK, VETERAN LABOR CHIEF IN CHICAGO, DIES AT 70

Thomas Fitzpatrick, a veteran labor leader and one of the founders of the Chicago Carpenters' union about 40 years ago, died yesterday in his home at 7159 Normal boulevard. He was 70 years old. He was division superintendent of repairs for the board of education, with which he had been connected for 42 years.

Mr. Fitzpatrick served 17 years as president of local 10 of the Carpenters' union and also was a delegate to the district council of the Chicago Federation of Labor. He helped to found radio station WCFL.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Hannah Dineen Fitzpatrick; a son, John J., and four daughters, Alice, Mrs. Mary Finnegan, Mrs. Ann Martin, and Mrs. Rita Carmody, the latter a member of THE TRIBUNE editorial department. Services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday in St. Bernard's Catholic church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

REV. MAGUIRE, ONCE HEAD OF ST. VIATOR, DIES

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP).—The Rev. J. W. R. Maguire, 57 years old, widely known for his work in behalf of labor, died today from a heart attack in Miami, Fla., friends announced tonight. He was president emeritus of St. Viator college, Bourbonnais, Ill.

The Rev. Maguire was active in the settlement of a number of labor strikes and formerly was a representative of the Chicago regional office of the National Labor Relations Board. He also was a frequent speaker at conventions of the American Federation of Labor and other unions, and pleaded in behalf of labor legislation before the Illinois general assembly at Springfield.

He was president of St. Viator from 1927 until 1933. He remained as dean of the department of sociology until 1938, when the college was abandoned. He then taught at St. Frances college, Joliet, Ill., obtaining a leave of absence last fall because of illness. Born in Ireland, the Rev. Mr. Maguire was educated in England, at St. Viator, and at Catholic university of America, Washington, D. C. He was ordained to the priesthood on Dec. 13, 1914. Last December his silver jubilee was observed in Chicago.

Films and Stars Nominated for Academy Votes

BY ED SULLIVAN.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 11 [Special].—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has nominated 10 pictures, five actors and five actresses for the 12th annual awards which will be announced on Feb. 29 at the academy banquet in Los Angeles. Twelve thousand academicians will start balloting next Thursday.

Young Mickey Rooney and Bette Davis, voted king and queen of the Chicago Tribune-News Syndicate poll, both qualified for the finals.

The 10 pictures nominated: "Dark Victory," "Gone With the Wind," "Good-by, Mr. Chips," "Love Affair," "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," "Ninotchka," "Of Mice and Men," "Stagecoach," "Wizard of Oz," and "Wuthering Heights."

For the best performance by an actor, these five players have been named: Mickey Rooney, Robert Donat, Clark Gable, Laurence Olivier, and Jimmy Stewart.

Actresses qualifying for the final balloting are Bette Davis, Irene Dunne, Greta Garbo, Greer Garson, and Vivien Leigh.

Rooney reached the final stages of the voting for his performance in "Babes in Arms." Miss Davis, the defending champion, qualified thru her performance in "Dark Victory."

For the best performance by an actor in a supporting rôle these five were named: Brian Aherne for "Juarez," Harry Carey for "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," Brian Donlevy for "Beau Geste," Thomas Mitchell for "Stagecoach," and Claude Fains for "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

For the best performance by an actress in a supporting rôle the nominating committee qualified Olivia De Havilland in "Gone With the Wind," Geraldine Fitzgerald in "Wuthering Heights," Hattie McDaniel in "Gone With the Wind," Edna May Oliver in "Drums Along the Mohawk," and Marie Ouspenskaya in "Love Affair."

Good Morning!

Along in 1923 Marion Davies appeared in a silent version of Rita Johnson's play. . . . Now, the talkies take a swing at it, with Alice Faye in the leading feminine rôle.

This "Little Old New York" left me rather cold. I thought Miss Faye, as a smart alecky tavern keeper, and Richard Greene, with his dimples and curls as young Robert Fulton, who battles his way to the achievement of launching the first river steamboat on the Hudson, were miscast.

The latter just ISN'T the type to lay low with his two bare fists such redoubtable huskies as Fred MacMurray and Ward Bond, and you know it. As for Alice, well—give the girl a horse she can ride. . . .

Brenda Joyce, now—she was fittin'! And so, I might say, are all the other capable players you find listed in the cast.

Backgrounds of Old New York; the harbor as it was in the early part of the last century; costumes and customs of an earlier day, are interesting.

The story:

To a tavern on the waterfront of old New York, comes, from abroad where he had been sent for education by Benjamin Franklin, young Robert Fulton with a boat model—seeking lodging. . . .

His courtesy intrigues Pat O'Day, his landlady, who yearns to belong to the upper crust—and she mistakes his attitude for romantic regard for herself. . . . In reality, Fulton has fallen head over heels in love with Harriet Livingston, niece of Chancellor Livingston, who has been his backer. . . .

Many a difficulty does the youthful inventor have to overcome before the day his Claremont is triumphantly launched and proves that a steam driven boat can really go up stream.

See you tomorrow.

Jewish Federation Sets Up Job Service to Aid Young People

An employment exchange to place young Jews affiliated with the National Federation of Temple Youth in positions for which their abilities qualify them was organized yesterday by the federation's executive board in the Standard club. The step was taken in view of the American Youth commission's survey showing that three out of every ten young men and women in the nation are unemployed.

The exchange will compile and exchange lists of unemployed Jewish youth with specialized skills or professional training, in order that community needs for specialized workers may be filled wherever they arise.

Local committees on vocational guidance also will prepare lists of opportunities available in their communities. The national federation represents reform Jewish congregations in this country.

Miriam Fetcher to Be Bride of William Steel

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING romantic news comes from Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher of Winnetka, who today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miriam, to William Warren Steel, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sanger B. Steel of Scarsdale, N. Y. Mr. Steel, whose mother was Miss Marion Parsons Warren before her marriage, is a nephew of L. Parsons Warren of Chicago, and made his home here with Mr. and Mrs. Warren for several years.

Miss Fetcher was graduated from Smith college in 1937, the year that Mr. Steel received his degree at Williams. They met at the Graduate Teachers college of Winnetka, where they received their pedagogic training. Since then Miss Fetcher has been teaching in the Village and Farm school of Glencoe.

Mr. Steel is teaching at the St. Petersburg Country Day school, in St. Petersburg, Fla. He and Miss Fetcher will be married in June.

Catharine White Munro to Wed Clevelander.

At a tea at home in Glenview yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bingham Ripley Jr. announced the engagement of their sister, Catharine White Munro, to Wilbor Specht Adams of Cleveland, O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stark W. Adams of Topeka, Kas.

Miss Munro, whose parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon Munro of Wilmette, attended the University of Illinois. Mr. Adams is a graduate of Washburn college and Northwestern university. The wedding will take place on April 6 at the Ripley home, and Mr. Adams and his bride will live in Cleveland.

The Shy Swain Finds Florist Is Friend in Need

BY REA SEEGER.

Shy, tongue-tied swains and jittery gentlemen who are afraid the girls won't use the leap year idea can nudge fate with flowers.

There isn't a florist shop in town who isn't ready to help all bashful "gents" as well as the spinsters. Buds and blossoms of every hue and fragrance in pots or gay boxes are ready.

Since there are so many lovely ladies who have a definite yen for white blossoms, here are the preferred listings in white: Violets, white roses that have much more fragrance than any of the colored roses, white snapdragons for a black piano, white tulips, white hyacinths, orchids and lilies of the valley.

Heart shaped cellophane boxes are exceptionally intriguing delivery packages. They harbor neat little nosegays for a suit lapel or the large corsages. New this season are the valentine affairs, the center a blushing red chenille heart, the flowers placed round the heart or tucked artfully to one side. All spring flowers and buds are used for these true valentine ideas, daffodils, acacia, mimosa, tulips, sweetheart roses, and violets.

The potted plants are irresistible. Baby azaleas, white, pink, or red, tulips in all spring shades, snow white cyclamen, spicy perfumed stocks of hyacinths in white, pink, or coral red.

Old-fashioned primrose plants are as demurely decorative as anything out of an old heart throbbing novel. Violet corsage arrangements have tiny pink rose buds in the center.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage to Michael, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. Michael knows nothing about the sentence, as Cynthia has given the name of Clara Brown when arrested as Clarke's accomplice in a roadhouse robbery and murder. At the prison Cynthia's childhood friend, Bessie Stockley, is wardress and exchanges places with her so she can marry Michael without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Cynthia persuades Michael to return to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison. She discovers she is going to have a baby and breaks prison. Explaining her absence as a lapse of memory, she goes to stay with her husband's mother and sister Marion, at Cloutleigh. Rory Clarke blackmails Cynthia, and Scotland Yard in their search for Clarke get suspicious of Cynthia. Escorted by Sir William, a family friend, she attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage date, when she was supposed to be in prison, clears her. She goes on to Malta. Bessie applies for a job from Marion, and detectives question her. Bessie gets frightened and cables a warning to Cynthia. Marion checks up and makes Bessie explain everything. Michael finds Bessie's message and realizes Cynthia has lied, but she begs him to trust her. Marion is questioned by detectives and sees a way to shift the danger from Michael by admitting she knew Clarke.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

A NEW TRAIL.

"I'm under the impression, Miss Alloway," put in Stevens, "that you informed me you had not known Stainham before that chance meeting on the Moor."

"I didn't want to discuss Clarke with any one."

"Why not?"

There was a long silence. Presently Marion said:

"Well, perhaps you know that he's a blackmailer as well as other things. He found out about—about an incident of my 'teens which I didn't want known. He had been blackmailing me for some time before he came down here on the pretext of seeing my sister-in-law, who knows him only very slightly."

Bessie gasped aloud. But both detectives were staring at Marion, too surprised to pay attention to any one else.

"Was Clara Brown in any way connected with his blackmail of you?" Marion's jaw hardened.

"Now look here, Mr. Rason, you know perfectly well I'm not concealing Clarke and that's all that matters to you. I don't have to give you private and personal information about myself and I don't intend to."

"Quite so, Miss Alloway. We don't want to ask you anything that might embarrass you. Only, you see by making yourself a mystery person you naturally start us wondering."

"That doesn't affect me."

"No—no, of course not. But you mustn't forget that Clarke is a murderer who has shot at and badly wounded two of my colleagues."

"I haven't forgotten it. I'm as anxious as you are to put him under lock and key. After all, I told you where to find him." She paused, then added very deliberately: "Twice."

"Twice!" Rason rose, excited. "You mean that it was you who telephoned us on the first occasion, too—the time when Clarke shot his way out of Paddington?"

"Yes, it was. O I know I denied making that call. But, as I've told you, I didn't wish to discuss the man. Nor will I now."

"But you will continue to inform us, when you can, about his movements?"

Again Marion took time to reply.

"He must know by now that I want him to be caught even more than I want—my secret kept," she answered at last. "He'll keep clear of me, I imagine, in future."

Rason seemed about to say something but reconsidered it.

"You may be right," he murmured finally. "Time will show. But we can assume that if he should approach you again——?"

"I shall warn you," promised Marion. And, after perfunctory thanks, Rason took himself and his colleague off.

Left alone, the two girls looked at each other.

"Miss Alloway," burst out Bessie, "you won't like my saying it, but I think you've done the bravest, kindest thing one person ever did for another! If Miss Cynthia could know——"

Marion raised her hand.

"I think I hear Sir William going," said Marion, looking out into the garden. "Perhaps you had better take my mother her knitting. . . . If I decide to go away for a few weeks, could I trust you to look after her as carefully as tho I were here?"

"Indeed you could!"

"Good! I'm beginning to feel I need a holiday."

. . . . . .

The two detectives, returning to the inn by way of Manor Lane, walked enwrapped in a gloomy silence. The sight of Sir William Merrowbridge rattling past in a very ancient two-seater did nothing to restore their spirits. They were back in the sitting room Rason had taken before they referred to the interview just past.

Stevens judged it politic to begin with a generalization.

"We seem to have discovered an entirely new element in the situation, sir."

Rason grunted.

"I mean, Miss Alloway's connection with Clarke."

Rason lifted an eyebrow.

"You think she was lying?" asked his assistant.

"I think there's no proving whether she was lying or not—until we catch Clarke," returned Rason. "It's curious, Stevens, that as time goes on Clarke becomes the answer to all the riddles, as well as a wanted gunman-crook. Only Clarke can confirm Miss Alloway's story; only Clarke can tell us who Clara Brown is and where we can find her."

"And whether Bessie Stockley really went to that wedding?"

"Yes, he might even know that. At any rate, her alibi is water-tight without him. . . . Clever girl, Stockley. Remembers to prime her witness well in advance. And yet—" he brought his hands smartly down on the table—"I know I'm right. Bessie Stockley, wardress, took No. 63's place at Honebyker for a fortnight—there's the resemblance between them, and the uniform and cap must have helped—and No. 63 slipped back to her own life—and got married and spent a honeymoon at the Parnassus."

"And then went back?"

"Yes. You know, Stevens, that must have taken a fine sense of honor. . . . Well, after a bit she escaped again, with or without anybody's assistance——"

"Stockley had been moved from Honebyker by that time," Stevens reminded him. "She couldn't have helped."

"Not actively, no! Anyway, 63 got out again and prepared to join her husband at Malta. Clarke got into touch with her, down here, before she left. Now will he follow her out to Malta? I don't think so. Too dangerous. But he'll be waiting for her on her return next year. And unless he shows himself to us before then, Stevens, it looks as tho that's all we can do either—wait till she comes back."

"Your reconstruction of what happened leaves Marion Alloway out of it altogether," said Stevens after reflection. "All she's doing you'd say is to draw attention away from her sister-in-law? Laying an entirely false trail?"

"O it's true enough that Clarke was at school with her brother. Alloway himself told me that. But the rest of the yarn——" Rason shook his head.

"All the same, sir, even if the blackmail yarn isn't true up to date, Clarke may make it so. With No. 63 out of his reach, he might try the sister-in-law, mightn't he?"

"Yes, he might. That's an idea, Stevens! He won't show up again down here, of course. But there are more convenient spots."

"Taunton station buffet, for instance," grinned Stevens.

"Well, then, our best plan is to watch Marion Alloway. If Clarke does approach her we shall be on the spot."

"She said she'd tip us off."

"She may. If she realizes what a lot he can tell us, she'll probably think better of her promise."

GASOLINE ALLEY—SKY IS THE LIMIT, BUT LOW CEILING

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: News, News, My Gossiping Friends

Slim Waist Is Prescribed for 1940 Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Here's your formula for 1940 de luxe appearance, as proposed by one of the foremost cosmeticians:

"A figure lithe, small waisted, perfectly attuned to modern life and its varied demands. Beauty of face achieved by basic care of the skin, enhanced by makeup, artfully applied. Beauty of hair and beauty of coiffure!"

Do you qualify already, or do you need to brush up here and there and elsewhere?

Is the figure lithe and small waisted?

We'll wager more of us women can answer no to that one than yes, altho there is an ever smart percentage that manages to keep lithe and supple by varied sports, athletic and consistent exercise activities. The small waist is something some women are born with and heroically manage to retain a lifetime. Some women, on the other hand, find the years one continuous struggle to keep the waist at normal measurement.

Some are born with straight up and down build with virtually no waistline indenture. They can achieve a good waistline imitation if they keep the sector absolutely fat free and avail themselves of the aid of dress lines.

Anyway, if fashion orders a waistline, a waistline it must be. And those dears who've either lazed or eaten theirs out of sight know what they should do. When it comes to reducing, the waistline sector really is the easiest part of the entire body from which to shed excess. Just a few good exercises done daily for one month and cutting the food intake down to one-half at each meal will make a whale of a lot of difference.

The Chicago Woman's Club Hears Winning Lincoln Essay Today

The Chicago Woman's club will hold its annual Lincoln good will program at 2 o'clock today at the clubhouse, 72 East 11th street. Meyer Barrash, Marshall High school student, will read his essay, "The International Policy of Abraham Lincoln," which won the club's annual contest for high school students. The Helen Wooster Cooley scholarship to a college of his choice will be awarded to Mr. Barrash. The Rev. Preston Bradley will speak on "Abraham Lincoln," and William Mostowicz and Miss Annie Oakhill, who placed second and third respectively in the contest, will be presented. Several foreign consuls and high school principals will be guests.

On the House

Whatever type of garage you have, there's something to be said in favor of dressing it up a bit—in case it doesn't happen to be one of those very nice new garages tied in neatly with a nice new house. A garage can be made much easier to look at by plantings and trellises. And a garage wall can even serve as a background for a cozy garden room, with outdoor fireplace and table and bench.

LOUISE BARGELT.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

More valentines for Cupid's victims to give or to receive:

Four delightful, ultramodern perfumes snug in a white satin heart with decidedly old fashioned wrappings. Lots of red, lots of white lacy effects, and lots of sweet nothings in sentimental script make the package appropriate and charming. The gay package opens from the center in four triangles to reveal the perfumes within. The perfumes are elegant.

Or you might consider one of the most exciting cakes of soap to be found. This is pink, heart shaped, and comes in one of those smash-hit packages that the chic woman finds irresistible.

This is not a purely seasonal presentation, but it happens that in color and shape and effectiveness it's a natural for Valentine's day. The soap is scented with a marvelously popular perfume—very gay and bright-young-thingish.

This same scent is available in sachet, a large satin heart in brilliant pink, resting in a heart shaped box. This is one of those de luxe sachet gifts fastidious women are crazy about. And we've yet to find a woman who didn't rave about the perfume used.

Speaking of perfumes, why not a bottle of her favorite as her Valentine? It would be pretty hard to top as a selection. Women, especially those of moderate means, are hesitant to buy perfume for themselves. Smart swains will replenish the supply when gifts are in order.

Tea is a relaxing, comforting beverage, and there's a tea for every taste. Confirmed tea drinkers usually have their pets, can detect and will resent a kind other than the old favorite.

All of the black and green and in-between teas come from the same kind of plant. The processes which the leaves go thru after picking determine color and flavor. Teas fall into three general classes: green, black and oolong. Leaves for green teas aren't allowed to wither, but are steamed, rolled, and fired. Black teas are withered, rolled, and then fermented before being fired. Chemical changes during fermentation develop the essential oils which give black tea its aroma. Green tea has very little aroma.

Oolong tea, which resembles both green and black teas in that it has the aroma of black and the tang of green, is prepared much like black tea, except that fermentation is stopped sooner.

Climate and soil in which tea bushes grow exert a great influence upon the quality of the tea leaves, but since federal restrictions bar substandard teas from any of the tea producing countries, we don't have to worry about really poor qualities. What we want to look for is a fine quality tea which seems to have just the body, color, aroma, and flavor we like, and the only way to find out is to try a good many kinds of tea, making little personal investigations into their properties.

Whatever the kind of tea chosen, there are rules to be observed in brewing it. Sloppy tea making habits don't do justice to any tea, whether it was bought for 40 cents a pound or $100. [And you can get $100 tea if you're looking for it, I'm told.]

HOW TO BREW ANY KIND OF TEA.

1. Use a spotlessly clean teapot—porcelain, earthenware, or glass [the glass coffee maker is an excellent brewer of tea].

2. Use freshly boiling water and a teaspoon of tea to each cup of boiling water. [This is average strength. Your own preference may be for more or less tea than this.]

3. Let the tea steep in hot water three to six minutes, but no longer than six minutes, because longer steeping develops excessive tannin in the drink, spoiling its flavor.

4. Remove tea leaves from hot water after the steeping period. Tea balls or tea strainers may be employed to facilitate this separation of brewed tea and flavor exhausted leaves.

The average American family is said to consume about 5¼ pounds of tea in a year. The middle west seems to prefer green tea for ordinary uses, black tea for party service. Spiced and fruit juice flavored tea drinks are favorite hot beverages at many winter "at-homes." In warmer weather chilled teas are equally popular.

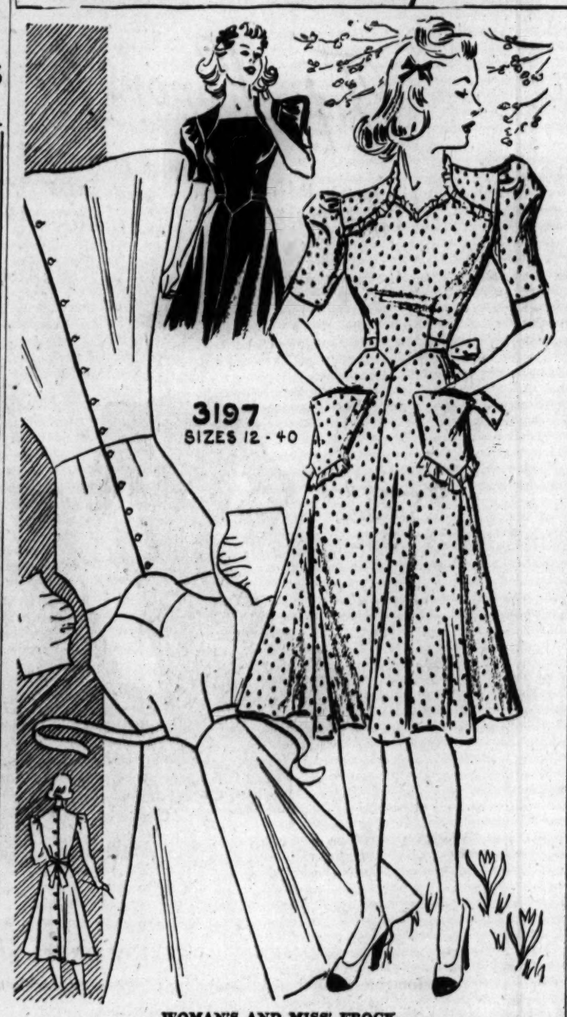
Beautiful Frock Easily Made



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

The sketch at the left illustrates the simplicity of this frock and the ease with which it may be made, but the final results belie such lack of intricacy, because the lines of the frock are decidedly "dressmaker" in character. You'll find ready admiration for this ruffled and girlish frock with its huge pockets. If you like, keep to dark fabrics and lack of trimming for the current season, but if it's a spring dress you want, use a gay print and frosty trimming touches.

Style No. 3197 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16 and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of ruffling.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Usually expert play can guard against bad breaks, but I must admit that sometimes everything goes wrong for a player, no matter how skilfully he plays. And every once in a while a player will fail to make a hand because he made the right play.

A typical case was today's hand, played by a very expert South.

NORTH
♠ None
♥ A 9 7 4 2
♦ A 7 4 3

WEST
♠ K Q J 8 6
♥ Q 10 6 5
♦ 10 8 2
♣ 3

EAST
♥ J
♦ 9 6

SOUTH
♠ 9 5 4
♥ K 8 3
♦ K Q J 5
♣ K 10 6

The bidding, with both sides vulnerable, is of little importance, since both North and South overbid enthusiastically. They arrived at seven diamonds—not a good contract.

A trump lead would have given declarer quite a bit to think about, but West chose to lead the king of spades.

Dummy ruffed and declarer counted his tricks: three spade ruffs in dummy, four trumps, two hearts, and four clubs. The total was right, but the question of getting back to his own hand often enough was troublesome.

He got there the first time with the king of hearts and ruffed a second spade. The eight of clubs was taken by declarer's ten and his last spade was led.

Now declarer had to make a decision. One line of play would be to ruff low, cash the ace of trumps, and return with the king of clubs to exhaust the trumps. A singleton club, in that case, would defeat him. The other plan was to ruff with the ace of trumps and return a trump. By this method a singleton club would occasion him no worry, but a 4-1 trump split would be fatal.

Boiled down, it came to this: only if one defender had a singleton in a minor suit would there be trouble. Which singleton was more likely? He did not have to be much of a mathematician to decide that there was less chance that one player had a singleton in the six clubs outstanding than in the five diamonds.

He therefore ruffed the third spade with a low trump and cashed the trump ace. Then he led the jack of clubs, overtaking with his king. And West ruffed!

Now, had South not been so expert he might have ruffed the third spade with the ace of trumps, and then led the trumps out. This would have been a bad play, but it would have worked. But South is not downhearted. He knows [as every expert does] that he will gain more in the long run by playing with, rather than against, the odds.

Woman's A. C. Men's Squash Team Arranges Matches.

It seems a paradox that a woman's athletic club should have a men's squash team, but it is true of the Woman's Athletic club on North Michigan avenue. Men are admitted to the club's courts every day after 11:30 o'clock to practice. On Saturday the men's team will meet a men's team from the Lake Shore Athletic club at 2:30 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic courts.

Playing for the Woman's Athletic will be Louis C. Sudler, William E. Ullmann, Arthur J. Atkinson, Durmont W. McGraw, and Bruce P. Adams. The match will be the first of a series to be played with other clubs in and around Chicago.

The American Opera society, of which Eleanor Everest Freer is founder president, has cards out for a benefit musical and tea at 3 o'clock on Feb. 20 in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel. The program will be presented by Mae Doelling Schmidt, Lucille Manker, and Freda Draper, the latter assisted by Leo Heim. Proceeds will go to the David Bispham Medal fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hibbard are leaving for Arizona today for their annual winter holiday at their favorite resort. They will be at Rancho Linda Vista, in the Catalina mountains near Tucson, for two months.

Mrs. Henry Field's Cousin Arrives for War Work.

Mrs. Henry Field acquired another able assistant for her American Friends of France when her cousin, Miss Minna Lindsay, arrived last week from Boston. Miss Lindsay plans to spend the rest of the winter and spring in Chicago doing war work.

Mrs. Field and her children are going to Thomasville, Ga., to spend Easter vacation with her parents, the Robb Whites. They will leave on March 21 and be away for about two weeks.

The James B. Forgans have left to spend about two weeks on their farm in Cambridge, Vt.

The Robert O. Clarks of Wilmette have joined her father, Selden F. White, at Sea Island, Ga. Also at the Cloister at the resort are the John H. Dingles.

Mr. and Mrs. Wafner G. Baird have taken a beach cottage at Sea Island for the late winter and spring seasons.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and her daughter, Miss Eleanor McClurg, sailed last Saturday on the Nieuw Amsterdam for a two months' cruise of the West Indies. They plan to stop at Havana and continue to Nassau.

Children's Home and Aid Board to Meet Today.

There will be a meeting of the woman's board of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Alden Carpenter. Mrs. Carpenter's daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, is president of the board, which is sponsoring the Steuben Glass exhibition of "Twenty-seven Artists in Crystal," to open on April 19 at 900 North Michigan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter are near Santa Barbara, Cal., where they have taken the Clarence Mitchells' house in Hope Ranch for the spring. The Mitchells have been in Chicago this winter.

Elizabeth Gordon Fox, associate professor of public health nursing at the Yale university school of nursing and executive director of the New Haven Visiting Nurse association, will be the speaker at the annual meeting and luncheon of the Central Council for Nursing Education today. Her subject will be "A Plan for Meeting the Nursing Needs in the Community." The meeting will be held at 12:15 o'clock in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

The first in the Chapel guild of the Cenacle's 1940 Lenten lecture series will be given at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the State parkway home of Edward I. Cudahy. The Rev. George H. Dunne will be the speaker.

Mrs. Florence Bourke Ellis will review Carl Sandburg's "Lincoln: The War Years," at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Del Prado hotel before members of the woman's board of La Rabida Jackson Park Sanitarium and their guests. Mrs. Harry A. Culver is chairman of the party.

Members of the Chicago chapter of the American-Scandinavian foundation will hear Dr. Gustaf Munthe speak on "The Northern Democracies in the Present Crisis" at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the foundation, 86 East Randolph street.

Harshness with Child Will Have Sorry Results

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you believe in physical punishment for a boy about 12 or 13 and, what can be done when these measures fail, and the parents try just talking to the boy, and that fails, too? I am asked.

While parents may subjugate a young child with punishment, when the child is older the system bears bad fruit. Various things may happen when adolescence comes along. There may be, for one thing, open revolt and disobedience, which, because it is open, is probably the most wholesome of all the bad results. Then there may be sullenness and lying and deceit, these not so good. Or the boy or girl may run away from home, even worse, perhaps.

Parents facing such difficulties must sincerely want to be friends with their boy, want really to know him, want to enjoy him for their own sakes and to repair the harm they have done. They must study their child with new eyes to find out what he is really like. They must look critically at themselves and melt the hardness out of their hearts, and then go to work as parents, with a different way of approaching their child—whether it is a son or a daughter who may be entering the teens.

Son, 25, Restrained by Apron Strings Must Break Loose

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When a young man 25 years of age writes that his mother forbids him to go out with girls, it is more of a news feature than when a young woman tells the story. It isn't pretty news, however, because it instantly brings to mind a selfish parent. But we'll let the young man tell his story.

"I am 25 and the only child in the family. My mother absolutely forbids me to go out with girls.

"I have received letters and invitations from girls. They've been torn up, as I found out later. If I ever manage to make a break away it's when I lie and say I am going to some stag affair. I hate this position I am in. What am I to do?

"SICK OF LIVING."

That woman will make a sissy out of you if you don't do battle pronto.

Can't you put on your hat and coat and say you're going out with a girl and go, regardless of the hue and cry? Let your mother throw her conniption fit, if she must. Let her rave and rant but you keep on going in the direction in which the girl lives. A few expressions of the sort from you in all probability are what's needed.

Jooss Ballet Presents Two New Numbers

BY CECIL SMITH.

The renowned Jooss ballet paid one of its infrequent visits to Chicago yesterday, stopping off at the Civic Opera house long enough to give both afternoon and evening performances. The matinée bill consisted of two long works, both new—"A Spring Tale" and "Chronica." The evening program, more diversified, was composed of four works Chicago has seen before—"Seven Heroes," "Big City," "Ball in Old Vienna," and "The Green Table."

In training his group and creating his ballets, Kurt Jooss evidently operates on the principle that a limited undertaking well achieved is better than an ambitious one imperfectly carried off. With a degree of caution that seems rather inhibiting artistically he has kept his repertory small and has sought to employ a restricted technique stemming both from classical ballet and from the postwar German dance styles. There are no stage settings; everything is danced in front of black curtains, tho colorful costumes keep the dances from becoming pictorially drab.

Within these rigid, self-imposed limits Mr. Jooss [who does not dance himself] has disciplined his company to the point of exemplary polish and unusual accuracy of execution. Moreover, in Hans Zullig, Noelle De Mosa, Ulla Soederbaum, and many others he has availed himself of the services of superbly gifted young dancers. Certainly the contemporary dance field knows no finer level of performance than the Jooss dancers constantly maintain.

Of the two new ballets, "A Spring Tale" possessed greater charm and spontaneity than "Chronica." The story of "A Spring Tale" is an inconsequential fairy tale of a prince and a princess, and a "wondrous hermit" who shows them that they love each other. The story is blown up into nine scenes, rather more than its tenuous content justifies. The audience enjoyed it, however, delighting in its clear, if naïve, choreographic design and in the fluent dancing of Miss Soederbaum and Mr. Zullig as the princess and the prince.

A certain literalness of detail and heaviness of pantomime were in evidence in "A Spring Tale." These qualities became irritating in "Chronica," which has to do with the rise and fall of a sixteenth century dictator. Here rhetorical gesticulation and preachy symbolism bogged down a sincere attempt to be timely. Detailed political arguments cannot be presented by means of the dance. As a work of art "Chronica" is long, dull, and strained, despite the excellence with which it was presented yesterday.

Argentinita Puts Fun Into Great Dancing

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Argentinita and her Spaniards filled the Auditorium with great dancing and bubbling fun yesterday. The dancing and the fun were not divided into two neat segments, but were inextricably intertwined.

For these extraordinary dancers—Argentinita, Pilar Lopez, Antonio Triana—are not content with the tantalizing clicking of castanets, the swirl and flash of rainbow costumes, nor even with the proper execution of traditional or original maneuvers. All of these things are there, of course, but over and above them is a sense of character—a flair for the human—that gives many of their dances a wonderful humor and truth.

There is much skilful and reticent caricature. Argentinita will apparently throw herself wholeheartedly into the task of enacting a character or representing a mood, but at the same time she will ask the audience to laugh with her at this character or mood. A slightly exaggerated gesture of a fleeting facial expression suffices to turn the most serious, deadpan dancing into delicious travesty.

Triana can always be depended on to draw chuckles from the house for the archness of his amorous glances and for the roguishness of his pantomime. That his genius for this sort of thing is not confined to dances based on the folklore of his own Spain was proved in the second half of the program yesterday when he enacted a Venezuelan equivalent of the jitterbug more convincingly than the Venezuelan himself could have done.

The program consisted of the dances of Spain and Latin America. Music was provided by Rogelio Machado, a pianist with an exceptional rhythmic gift, and by the virtuoso guitarist, Carlos Montoya.

The St. Elizabeth Glee club, Garfield Henry conducting, sang a program of sacred and secular music in the Auditorium Recital hall yesterday. The natural vocal methods, the genuine sincerity, and the musical precision which distinguished the performance more than made up for a little tonal roughness here and there. Louise Crowell played admirable accompaniments.

HAWKS SHUT OUT LEADING RANGERS, 3 TO 0

OPEN NORTH SIDE GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNEY TONIGHT

199 AMATEURS FIGHT IN TWO RINGS AT LOYOLA

Start Three Nights' Competition.

Golden Glove Facts

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE.

EVENT—Opening of north side Golden Gloves novice tournament.

PLACE—Loyola university gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue.

TIME—First bout at 7 o'clock; doors open at 6:30 p. m.

CONTESTANTS—199 novice boxers in all weight divisions. Boxing in two rings.

BOXERS' INSTRUCTIONS—Report between 4 and 6 p. m. for weighing and physical examination.

ADMISSION—75 cents; no reserved seats.

OUT OF TOWN BOUTS.

Dayton News finals.
Kenosha News preliminaries.
Milwaukee Journal preliminaries.
Minneapolis Star preliminaries.
Gary Post-Tribune preliminaries.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat preliminaries.
Davenport Times third round.
Oklahoma City Oklahoman finals.
Terre Haute Tribune-Star semi-finals.
Joliet Spectator preliminaries.
Central Sentinel preliminaries.
Station W-H-O [Des Moines] finals.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The north side Golden Gloves novice tournament will open tonight in two rings in Loyola university gymnasium. For three consecutive nights the slugging will continue. When the last blow is struck Wednesday evening only 16 fighters—two in each weight division—will be left from the starting field of 199.

The north side bouts, last of the sectional novice events, will clear the way for Chicago's open division tournament which will be held in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22. Out of the Coliseum campaign will come the eight fighters who will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions Feb. 26, 27, and 28 in the Stadium.

Tickets on Sale.

The over the counter sale of tickets for both the Coliseum and Stadium events will begin this morning in the Tribune Public Service offices. These are located at 1 South Dearborn street and in the Tribune Tower lobby.

All of Chicago's outstanding amateur fighters are now pointing for next week's open division tournament. This is a departure from the method of elimination used in recent years.

In other season's Chicago's open division fighters went into the Tournament of Champions after qualifying in various sectional tournaments. Thus in many cases outstanding fighters in the same weight class might never meet. This year, however, there's going to be no doubt about who are the city's best amateur boxers.

Eight Teams Selected.

Once that matter is settled, Chicago's boxing fans will have more interest than ever in seeing what their representatives will do against the fighters from 43 other cities where newspapers are coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in conducting preliminary Golden Gloves events.

Eight of these out-of-town teams already have been selected. Eighteen more will be established during the coming week. When all of these preliminaries are completed the survivors will converge on Chicago. They will be the best amateur boxers of the 23 states from which Golden Gloves talent is drawn.

Dayton, O., Oklahoma City, and Des Moines, Ia., will pick their champions tonight. Earlier rounds will be run off in nine other cities.

MICHIGAN PERILS INDIANA'S VISIT TO FIRST PLACE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Indiana's fast, well-balanced basketball team now is tied with Purdue for the Big Ten leadership, but the Hoosiers' position, achieved Saturday night in whipping the Boilermakers, will be at stake tonight in Bloomington against Michigan. Purdue's first defeat in Big Ten competition actually gives Indiana an edge in the remaining games if the Hoosiers win tonight.

Indiana already has beaten Illinois. Purdue faces the Illini twice, and after Saturday's 60 to 31 conquest of Minnesota, in which Capt. Bill Hapac of Illinois broke the conference scoring record with 34 points, Illinois seems to be the team would-be champions must defeat. Northwestern plays Illinois tonight in Champaign. This contest will be an important factor in breaking the present four-way tie for third place in the race.

Indiana Is Tops.

For all-around excellence, however, Indiana was tops Saturday night in defeating Purdue. Defeats by the Boilermakers and Michigan in their last two games in 1939 dropped the Hoosiers into second place behind Ohio State last year, when Indiana lost three games to Ohio State's two.

Indiana now has partial revenge on Purdue. The other game in this series is scheduled March 2. Now comes Michigan. But if scoring tonight is as well distributed as against Purdue, Indiana will win. Seven Hoosiers scored from the field against Purdue. Four men got two field goals each, the others three, four, and five, respectively. Bill Menke led Indiana's attack with five goals and two of three free throw attempts.

Potentially, Michigan offers a greater threat than was apparent against Northwestern. The Wolverine's speed, in which Mike Sofiak, Charley Pink, and Herb Brogan excelled, was sacrificed when the attackers held the ball upon reaching Northwestern's defense.

Frank Kay of the Chicago Weight Lifting club presses 240 pounds over his head in the sixth annual central A. A. U. weight lifting tournament at 1137 South Kedzie avenue yesterday.

Muscles Are Dime a Dozen at Weight Lifting Tourney

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

The worst place in town to pick an argument yesterday undoubtedly was in a little gymnasium at 1133 South Kedzie avenue. It was filled with well built gents who can lift from 150 to 300 pounds as easily as most folks can hoist the morning paper.

The occasion was the sixth annual Central A. A. U. novice weight-lifting tournament, and several hundred present or former lifters met at the West End Physical Culture club to watch 23 of the city's best novices try the three Olympic lifts.

Complete in Three Classes.

These are, if a Mr. Leonard Weiner, 1658 West 13th street, is to be trusted:

1. The two-hand military press. [In this the weight, a long bar with circular weights at each end, is brought from floor to chest in one motion, thence to arm's length above the head. No jerking is permitted.]

2. Two-hand snatch. [The weight comes from the floor overhead in a single motion as the lifter shifts his feet in what looks like a desperate attempt to get out from under.]

3. The two-hand clean and jerk. [The weight comes to the chest with a foot-spread permitted, then above the head. In the second motion full use is made of back and leg muscles.]

There are six weight classes and actually about 25 recognized lifts, plus a number of trick ones. Weiner, a member of the A. A. U. weight-lifting committee and of the Chicago Weight Lifting club, 1204 South Paulina, is a coach at 23 years of age.

There Are Two Kinds.

He says there are two kinds of lifters: those interested in body building and those whose only concern is to be able to lift more than anyone else. Weiner himself, a heavyweight, can hoist about 675 pounds as the total of the three lifts given. He coaches Frank Kay, a steel worker, who lifted 240 pounds yesterday in a demonstration. Kay had intended to lift only 215 [using the military press] but was forced to extend himself when a novice from the Englewood Y. M. C. A., Bill Gowgiel, lifted 230. Kay is considered Olympic timber.

Weiner said the yearly contests draw as spectators lifters and former lifters from all over the country. In proof he offered Johnny Foreman, professional boxer, wrestler and strongman, who dropped by to watch the boys.

Foreman has been all over the world with circuses, fairs, wrestling troupes and on the stage. Once on South State street Weiner saw an advertisement for a masked strongman. He thought it was a phony and decided to go inside and show up the masked marvel. Turned out to be Foreman. A little while later a physician friend described to Weiner the marvelous physique he had seen in a San Francisco fair exhibit. That was Foreman, too.

Foreman, incidentally, claims the "wrist turning" championship of the world. That's the game in which you put your elbow on a table and defy an adversary to bring your forearm to horizontal.

Phil Grueber, also a professional wrestler, gave a demonstration of muscle control which had the lifters gawking in amazement. Muscle control and strongman stunts are closely allied to weight lifting, according to Weiner.

Women, Too? Well, Now—

"Notice the bated breath on the part of the participants," Weiner said, during Grueber's demonstration. "They're looking on their god, muscle."

Weiner said any one of half a dozen men present yesterday could duplicate any strong-man stunt on the market. He said several could tear two decks of cards in half and wouldn't think of trying anything as easy as ripping a phone book across.

Lifting attracts both sexes, all ages and all types. Weiner knows weight lifters who are internes, clerks, attorneys, policemen, druggists, signpainters, teachers and engineers. He has seen boys of 9 and men of 49 begin to learn the art. They all start with small weights and go on to bigger and bigger ones. It's never too late to start building your body, Weiner says.

"Remember what Huxley says," Weiner reminds. "The body is a living organism and can't stand still. It either goes ahead or backward."

Gowgiel Steals Show.

Roy Herman won the heavyweight title, but outstanding honors for the meet went to Bill Gowgiel of the Englewood Y. M. C. A. Gowgiel smashed the record of 700 pounds made by Kay last year, hoisting a total of 730 pounds. He lifted 230 in the press, ten pounds over the old mark, and bettered the clean and jerk record by 20 pounds with a lift of 285.

Herman enabled the Northwest club to win the tournament with a total of 19 points.

RICKEY ATTACKS LANDIS PROPOSAL AS FATAL TO GAME

Gives Baseball Five Years Without Farms.

Columbus, O., Feb. 11 (AP).—Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, predicted last night the recent recommendation of Commissioner K. M. Landis to eliminate farm chains would kill every league in baseball, except possibly the major leagues, within five years.

"That system worked 20 years ago," Rickey told an audience of oldtimers here, "but that was before fans listened to major league ball games on the radio, jumped into their high powered cars and drove 100 miles or more over good roads to see big league clubs play. Progress has made minor league baseball impossible without help from the majors, who by the same token were playing to ever-increasing crowds."

"The farm system was, and still is, the savior of baseball," he said. "Without it the game will perish."

"The St. Louis Cardinals, thru their farm system, have put more ball players into the major leagues than any 10 independently operated clubs you can name. And we are accused of holding men down."

He suggested adoption of the universal draft and elimination of working agreements and the right to option players would give baseball a 20 year setback.

BAN TWO FOR LIFE.

Durham, N. C., Feb. 11 (AP).—In two sweeping decisions today involving the Lenoir [N. C.] club of the Tar Heel league, William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional leagues [minor leagues], expelled a manager and a player from the game for life, suspended the president and directors of the club, and warned against future frauds.

Bramham imposed two fines aggregating $740 and placed President W. G. Courtney and five directors on baseball's ineligible list for filing false and forged contracts for 41 players.

In a separate decision Bramham expelled from baseball Clarence P. Roper, who managed the team for half the 1939 season, and Mike Sime, because the latter played under an assumed name [Bob Wells] while on the ineligible list of the Wausau [Wis.] club of the Northern league.

The forged contracts showed the club ostensibly paying players $60 to $125 a month when it actually was paying $90 to $250, Bramham said. A punitive fine of $500 was levied against the club "for this conduct of the club president" and an additional $240 fine representing 20 per cent of the salary limit [$1,200] of the Tar Heel league was imposed.

He said except for the fact that new interests have taken over the Lenoir club the franchise would have been forfeited.

RULES GROUP TO MEET.

Bellesir, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP).—The major league baseball rules committee will meet here tomorrow with Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Among those expected to attend are Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals, Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees, Umpire Ernie Quigley and President Ford Frick for the National league; President William Harridge and Umpire Tom Connolly of the American league; Eddie Collins of the Boston Red Sox and Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators.

FINALLY DRAFT SCHEDULE.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP).—Directors of the International Baseball league, at their third meeting, today arrived at a schedule for 1940. The schedule, adopted after failure to agree at two prior meetings in New York City, calls for 161 games and will open April 18 and end Sept. 15.

Frank Shaugnessy, president of the league, revealed that the new schedule will call for an extra week's playing time in September and will necessitate about 10,000 additional miles of travel for each team.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The rambunctious young Chicago Blackhawks, showing a brash disdain for the age, reputation, and proven ability of their opponents, last night lambasted the great New York Rangers, 3 to 0, before a shouting throng of 18,091 in the Chicago Stadium. The crowd established a National Hockey league record for this season.

The victory was probably the sweetest of the year for the Hawks, even more so than the 2 to 1 triumph of Jan. 14, which ended the Rangers' chain of 19 consecutive games without defeat. It evened the series between the two at three each and made the Chicagoans the only team in the league able to beat the leading New Yorkers more than twice.

Close in on Third.

Even more interesting was the fact that it extended the Hawks' string without defeat to five games and strengthened their hold on fourth place. They now hold a three game advantage over the Detroit Red Wings and are only a game and one-half out of third place.

The Hawks looked more like a Stanley cup crew than they did in beating the Rangers last month. Their forwards kept the able Dave Kerr, current No. 1 goalie of the league, on his bloomers most of the evening, while the defense men did a noble job of helping Paul Goodman, the Chicago doorman. The latter submitted another masterful performance for his fourth shutout since joining the Hawks in December. It also was his second whitewash job in three nights, he having frustrated Detroit, 3 to 0, Friday evening.

The Musher Gets One.

The Hawk scorers run the full gamut of big league service, but it was fitting that the eldest scored the goal sufficient to win. He is the assiduous Harold [Mush] March, still one of the hardest workers in hockey in this, his 12th season with the Hawks. The second Chicago goal was contributed by 20 year old Johnny Chad, who has worn a Hawk uniform less than a month, and the third, on the neatest trick of the game, was registered by Les Cunningham, another of Manager Paul Thompson's rookies.

The March goal occurred in the ninth minute of the first period. The Hawks had bombarded Kerr from the outside, but it wasn't until Joe Cooper, an old Ranger himself, organized a foray which kept the puck in New York territory for two minutes before Mush beat Kerr on a pass from Bill Carse.

Les Fools Mr. Kerr.

The Hawks were too eager in trying to capitalize on penalties dealt out to Rangers Art Coulter and Babe Pratt, but the latter had just skated back onto the ice when Chad fired the puck past Kerr in 19:08 of the first period. Cunningham and Bob Carse drew assists.

The Cunningham masterpiece was engineered in the tenth minute of the second period. Les swept down center flanked by his wings, Bob Carse and Chad. While the bewildered Kerr and hi. defense were wondering whether the Hawk center was going to pass or shoot, Les blazed a hard one past Kerr from 25 feet out.

From there on, the Rangers tried their darndest to wreck Goodman's shutout, but the vigorous Hawk checking got them so mixed up that at the finish they forsook deliberate passing for frantic swipes at the puck.

MR. PATRICK, LEO CENTER, HAS TWO FEUDS TO SETTLE

Both Involve a Ft. Wayne Basketball Team.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Basketball coaches in the Catholic High School league, most of whom can dribble in with a good blues number as soon as their football brethren leave the sports pages, agree their No. 1 tormentor this season is Stanley Patrick, Leo's sharpshooting center, whose speed and accurate shots have led the south side heavyweight quintet to seven consecutive league victories.

Stan Patrick.

Patrick gave a convincing demonstration in the national Catholic tournament a year ago that Leo would be the team to reckon with this season. Runner-up in the south division last year, Leo obtained an invitation to the Loyola meet and amazed prep followers by reaching the final round against Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Fort Wayne Five a Jinx.

Patrick found himself well checked in the championship game, while the Hoosiers fed their big center, Ed Stanczak, and Fort Wayne went home with the title trophy in its trunk. A few weeks ago, Central Catholic visited Leo's gymnasium and the Hoosiers returned home with a 35 to 27 triumph. This time Patrick was on the bench nursing an injured ankle.

The item uppermost in Patrick's mind is to avenge those defeats. Fort Wayne, being the defending champion, automatically receives an invitation to return to the national meet. Only two teams, winners in the north and south sectional races in the Catholic league, will represent Chicago. Patrick believes Leo without doubt will be the south division's representative in Loyola university gymnasium March 27 to 31.

Fact Mount Carmel Tomorrow.

Patrick and his teammates, Norman Hawkey and Bill Hunt, forwards, and Wally Mullens and Jim Farrell, guards, will attempt to remove Mount Carmel from their path to the sectional championship tomorrow night in Leo gymnasium, 79th and Peoria streets. Four other opponents remain on the schedule: Weber on Feb. 16, De Paul on Feb. 23, Joliet on March 1 and St. Rita on March 8.

Seventeen years old, six feet tall and weighing 165 pounds, Patrick also plays left half back on the football team and performs in the broad jump on the track squad. Patrick's basketball hero is Wibs Kautz, Loyola's star guard last year and now a member of the Chicago Bruins; tho Stan never has seen Kautz in action. He saw his first collegiate basketball game last Friday night when Loyola played De Paul in the Stadium for the C. Y. O. charity fund.

HOGAN, NELSON TIE; PLAY TODAY FOR TEXAS TITLE

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 11 (AP).—Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., national open champion, and Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., tied for first place today in the $5,000 Texas open golf tournament with a 72 hole total of 271, 13 under par.

Hogan carded successive rounds of 66, 73, 66 and 66; Nelson had 68, 67, 69 and 67. They will battle it out for the title in an 18 hole playoff tomorrow.

Hogan finished 20 minutes earlier than Nelson. Word buzzed back thru the gallery of 8,000 to Nelson that he needed a birdie on one of the last two holes to tie.

Only a shot back was Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, who took the 54 hole lead with a third round 67, blew his chances with an outgoing 39 in the afternoon and carded a 73 for 275 and fifth place.

PILGRIM QUINTET UPSETS BETHANY IN WALTHER PLAY

Pilgrim upset Bethany, 22 to 20, in the Lincoln Zone of the Walther basketball league yesterday to create a five way tie for first place. First Bethlehem, Bethany, St. Luke's, St. James, and Pilgrim have each won four and lost three.

PEPSI-COLAS AND SHAMROCKS WIN IN HOCKEY GAMES

The Pepsi-Colas defeated the Planerts, 3 to 2, and the C. Y. O. Shamrocks gained a surprise 2 to 1 overtime victory over the Hornets yesterday in an amateur hockey double header in the Chicago arena

MOON MULLINS—A LOT OF TROUBLE

Jackie Wilson Boxes Covelli in Marigold

Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh, will defend his National Boxing association rating as the No. 5 featherweight in a 10 round bout against Frankie [Kid] Covelli of Brooklyn in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Wilson will be seeking his 17th consecutive triumph. He scored 13 of these victories in Australia last year. Since his return Jackie has beaten Emil Joseph and Armand Sicilia.

This string of victories doesn't disturb Covelli, however, because he has beaten boxers of Wilson's caliber before. He whipped Sixto Escobar, former bantamweight champion, and Leone Efrati in his latest efforts.

Tommy Pallatin, St. Joseph, Mich., welterweight, and George Kontopolis will be opponents in a five round semifinal. Matches of four rounds will bring together Jimmy Bivens, former Cleveland sectional Golden Gloves welterweight winner, and Tito Taylor; Ralph Guajardo and Bobby Ryan, west side 147 pounders, and Eu Eullen, south side lightweight, and Jim Diamico.

Gus Sonneberg, once a football star at Dartmouth, will wrestle Seeli Samara in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. Other matches will bring together Cecil McGill and Charley Grubmyer, Henry Forman and Magyar Morrell, Phil Gruber and Walter Palmer, and Jack Zeravich and Joe Dvorak. . . . Movies of the heavyweight championship match between Joe Louis and Arturo Godoy show only 29 of the 45 minutes of fighting. . . . Barney Ross, retired lightweight champion, yesterday returned from New York to reestablish residence in Chicago.

Gene Spencer, South Chicago lightweight, and Phil Saell of the northwest side meet in an eight round bout tonight in Civic center auditorium, Hammond.

Steve Souris, 1937 Gary sectional Golden Gloves lightweight title holder, will fight Johnny Rock in a five round supporting bout. Souris, who is managed by George Sullivan, will try for his fifth consecutive victory. Booker Beckwith, 1938 international and intercity middleweight champion, who weighed 169 pounds in his last conquest, will box Selman Martin, south side 201 pounder, in a six round event. Billy Sherman, South Chicago lightweight, meets Kenny Cannon in a four round opener.

ZOBERSKI WINS SKI TOURNAMENT; JUMPS 273 FEET

Iron Mountain, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP).—Ted Zoberski of Ironwood, Mich., representing the Land o' Lakes, Wis., club, leaped 273 feet off the Pine Mountain ski slide today, longest exhibition jump in American ski jumping annals, after winning Class A in the seventh annual Kiwanis club tournament.

Zoberski's jumps of 246 and 245 feet in the tournament fell short of the official American tournament record of 257 feet, set here last year by Bob Roecker of Duluth, Minn., now representing the University of Nevada.

The 273 foot jump came after officials restored an 8 foot section of the takeoff which had been removed for the tournament as a safety precaution.

George Gunderson and Ole Besseberg, both of Chicago, placed first and second in the senior division. Gunderson's best jump was 183 feet.

POLICE INFORM FEREBEE HE'S ON WRONG FAIRWAY

J. Smith Ferebee, the young La Salle street broker whose 144 holes of golf a day proved a nine days' wonder some months ago, foozled his approach to the hockey game at the Chicago Stadium last night. He landed in the Racine avenue police station. There Patrolman Frank Palonis reported:

"He drove on the wrong side of Madison street at Wood street. I told him to back up. He wouldn't. I said I'd give him a ticket if he didn't. He answered, 'Why don't you? '"

The policeman didn't give him a ticket at the station, but charged him with disorderly conduct as a result of the argument. Ferebee had only $21 for his $25 bond. The police agreed to take $20. Ferebee thereupon gave the other dollar to a wanderer who had come to the station to sleep, and departed.

J. W. PARRISH, VETERAN HORSE BREEDER, DIES

Midway, Ky., Feb. 11 (AP).—James W. Parrish, turfman and banker, died today. Parrish, who was 77 years old, had been in ill health for several years. Among the better known horses he bred and raced were Midway, Dellor, Percentage, Cold Check, Rolled Stockings, Proph, and Knee Deep.

Lincoln Park Casters Win Tribune Meet

The Lincoln Park Casting club won the final event of the annual CHICAGO TRIBUNE casting tournament yesterday afternoon with a score of 482 in the five man team competition held on Navy Pier in conjunction with the National Boat and Sports show. Using regulation tournament scoring, the Lincoln park casters averaged 96.4 per man. A. E. Grunert, George Clk, and Matt Wanzung scored 98, A. R. Westra, 95, and Bert Naugle, 93.

The Illinois Casting club, paced by the perfect 100 made by Miss Margaret Weaver, was second with a team average of 94.6. The Chicago Fly Casting club was third with 94.4, the Gary Casting club fourth with 94.2, unattached fishermen fifth with 93.4, the Ravenswood Methodist church sixth with 88.6, and women casters seventh with 81.2.

The show closed last night after a record breaking crowd made its final inspection of the 150 boats, boat accessories, fishing equipment, and other outdoor items which were on display. Hubbard Erickson, show manager, said that this year's show established a new attendance record.

Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota visited the show yesterday afternoon and made a short talk in the Minnesota booth outlining the advantages of his state as a recreation area.

LAWNDALE AND SALOMON FIVES WIN 4TH IN ROW

Lawndale and Salomon lodges scored their fourth consecutive victories in the B'nai B'rith Lodge basketball league yesterday in the Boy's Brotherhood Republic gymnasium.

Sid Newman made six baskets and two free throws to lead Lawndale to a 45 to 33 victory over Garfield Park. Salomon trimmed Austin, 39 to 20. In other games, Lake View, defending champion, beat Cardozo, 36 to 33, and Sachar won from Albany Park, 41 to 34.

PLATAK RETAINS TITLE IN STATE HANDBALL MEET

Joe Platak of the Lake Shore A. C. retained his Central A. A. U. state singles handball championship by defeating George DIRe of the Chicago Towers club yesterday in the Midwest Athletic club. The scores were 21-18, 21-6. In the playoff for third place Paddy Cannon of the Chicago Towers club defeated Harry Ackerman of the Lake Shore Athletic club, 21-14, 21-8.

TAX REVENUES DIP; NEW DEAL POLICY BLAMED

High Levies Termed Blow to Treasury.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—Indicating that the federal government as well as private business is handicapped by the Roosevelt administration's tax policies, treasury figures released today showed the second successive annual decline in federal tax receipts.

These figures revealed that internal revenue collections in the calendar year 1939 fell 550 million dollars compared with 1938. Added to a similar decline of 110 million dollars in 1938, this meant a tax loss of 660 million dollars in the last two years.

Critics of the administration's tax program considered the tax figures proof of their contention that high taxes, coupled with vast public spending, have discouraged private enterprise and cut earnings to the point where benefits to the government have been reduced.

Use of Loophole Cited.

They also wondered how the President can tie in his tax program with the frequent use of tax loopholes by his own family, as charged publicly in the past and in some instances admitted by members of his family.

The illustration of retarding effects and diminishing returns is especially pointed in the case of income, estate, and gift taxes, in which aggregate losses far surpassed gains in other sources of revenue such as liquor and excise [nuisance] taxes.

The treasury figures today showed that internal revenue collections in the year ended Dec. 31 amounted to 4 billion 957 million dollars, compared with 5 billion 507 millions in 1938. In 1937 the total was 5 billion 617 millions, and in 1936 it was 3 billion 787 million dollars.

Income Tax Collections Fall.

Income taxes last year dropped 741 million dollars. Estate tax collections fell 14 millions. Gift taxes were 6 millions below the 1938 level. Total collections are shown in the following table by calendar years [in millions of dollars]:

Year.	Income.	Estate.	Gift.
1936	1,551	222	163
1937	2,584	378	22
1938	2,568	355	35
1939	1,827	341	29

Estate tax collections rose only temporarily after an additional tax was placed on estates in the revenue act of 1935, which stepped up the rates to 2 per cent on a net estate of $10,000, graduated to 70 per cent. This tax is in addition to that imposed by the revenue act of 1926, under which rates range from 1 per cent to 20 per cent of the net estate. For example, under the 1926 act the federal estate tax on a net taxable estate of $100,000 would be $1,500. Under the 1935 act the tax is $9,600.

How Estate Avoids Levy.

However, it was known that while Mr. Roosevelt was boosting estate taxes, his favorite retreat, the Hyde Park, N. Y., estate of his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, would not be subject to estate taxes if it should come into his possession.

The will of the President's father provided that the widow should hold a life interest and that upon her death the estate should revert to their son, Franklin. The estate would be nontaxable in this latter transfer. The fortune left by James Roosevelt to his widow was estimated at $100,000 in 1932 and is judged to be worth more now.

Since the advent of double estate taxation by the federal government, every means has been used to escape the burden. In the 1939 fiscal year, ended last June 30, collections of federal estate tax amounted to 332 million dollars, which is a decrease of 50 millions from collections of the preceding fiscal year.

Part of Decrease Traced.

"In this connection," says the annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue, "it was be of interest to note that more than 31 million dollars of this decrease can be traced to the election of 2,450 executors or administrators to take advantage of the provision of the law which affords an opportunity to have estates valued as of a date one year after the decedent's death."

Gift tax collections in the same fiscal year amounted to 28 million dollars, a decrease of more than 6 millions from 1938 collections. Many wealthy persons have liquidated their estates gradually and distributed them piecemeal. They have found the gift tax more reasonable in some respects, but heavy penalties on large gifts have again reduced tax revenues from this source. A drop from 163 to 22 million dollars is shown for the year 1937, compared with 1936.

Collections for 1937 reflect the doubled rates, provided in the revenue act of 1935, which became effective with gifts made in 1936 and reported in 1937. The law permits an exemption of $40,000. The tax on a net gift of $100,000 would amount to $7,200, against an estate tax of $9,600 on the same amount.

Vulnerable to Public Attack.

In the matter of income tax returns the President's family has been particularly vulnerable to public attack for using loopholes. Congress was thrown into a dither in 1937 over charges by Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], who represents the President's district in congress, that Mr. Roosevelt used the same loopholes to reduce his income taxes which he had denounced as "immoral and unethical."

The President had admitted deducting depreciation on an old barn, built in 1790, on a property he bought in 1910. When the barn burned in 1928 he still collected $4,000, the full appraised value.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, was involved in the same controversy, because of a special ruling in 1934 from Robert N. Jackson, then head of the internal revenue legal staff and now attorney general, which permitted Mrs. Roosevelt to deduct in full her charitable bequests instead of the usual 15 per cent of one's income.

Says She Will Pay.

Mrs. Roosevelt later said she would pay taxes on her radio earnings altho they had been ruled exempt.

Their eldest son, James, now in the movie industry, also was subjected to public interest in his tax matters. He ridiculed a magazine story which placed his insurance earnings at between $250,000 and $2,000,000 a year. He replied that his income ranged between $21,000 and $49,000. It was later disclosed, however, that James had split his insurance income with his wife in order to avoid income tax payments at a time when the President was demanding that tax loopholes be plugged.

FOURTH IN STEEL.

What place does Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation have in the steel industry of this country? Will you please furnish me with some information on its financial structure and operations?—P. K.

Answer: Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation ranks fourth among the nation's steel makers according to steel ingot capacity. It is preceded by the United States Steel corporation, the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and the Republic Steel corporation in that order, and is followed by the National Steel corporation, which is in fifth place.

Jones & Laughlin and subsidiaries produce open hearth and bessemer steel; hot rolled and cold finished strip, sheet and tubular steel; wire; fabricated structural shapes; tin, and ferro-manganese. Operations are centered in Pittsburgh and Aliquippa, Pa. With its main plants on the Monongahela river, the company has access to cheap water routes along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to industrial centers.

The company is capitalized as follows: $48,281,000 in funded debt, 587,139 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and 576,320 shares of common stock, both of $100 par value.

Heavy losses from operations were experienced by the company in 1938. Improvement was evident in 1939 with the general upturn in the steel industry. Net income in the first nine months of 1939 was $281,189, equal to 48 cents a preferred share, compared with net loss of $4,750,102 in the corresponding months of 1938.

Consolidated sales, net income and earnings per preferred share in recent years compared as follows:

	Sales.	Net Earned Per Income.	Pfd. Shr.
1934	$ 47,956,000	*$2,751,000	*$ 4.69
1935	63,551,000	*306,000	*0.68
1936	94,406,000	4,130,000	3.03
1937	135,273,000	5,266,000	5.97
1938	72,411,000	*5,880,000	*10.01

*Loss.

Because of losses in most of the last 10 years, the corporation has fallen behind in its dividends on the preferred stock which accumulate at the rate of $7 a share each year. Unpaid accumulated dividends on the preferred stock totaled $42 a share on Jan. 1, 1940. The last payment on this stock was $1.75 a share on Oct. 15, 1937. Nothing has been disbursed on the common stock since 1931.

HELPING THE POOR.

I helped a poor family down the street buy some coal and food last Christmas. I also gave some money to beggars. Can I deduct these donations and alms from my taxable income for my 1939 income tax return? —T. S.

Answer: No. Such contributions are gifts and nondeductible if they are made to individuals or unorganized groups, no matter how deserving.

NET EARNINGS OF PEOPLES GAS HIGHER IN YEAR

Sales Also Increase, but Taxes Grow.

Earnings of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company last year, after reservation of $2,445,429 pending a final decision in rate litigation, totaled $2,291,491, or $3.49 a share, the annual statement disclosed yesterday. In the preceding year net income, after deduction of $2,140,301 under litigation, aggregated $1,627,323, or $2.48 a share.

Revenues from gas sales increased 5.12 per cent during 1939 and totaled $42,533,701, George A. Ranney, chairman, told stockholders. Sales of gas in therms were 10.30 per cent higher.

"A major part of net income was derived from investments and operations of a nonutility character," Ranney said. "In the opinion of the management, earnings from the utility business of the company represent an inadequate return on the value of the property devoted thereto."

Reduces Long Term Debt.

The statement disclosed the company had reduced its long term debt by $3,600,000 during the year and by $20,374,100 in the last seven years. Interest charges on the long term debt last year, Ranney said, were $1,307,256 less than in 1933. Funded debt totaled $87,470,000 at the end of 1939, compared with $91,031,000 a year earlier. During the year the company paid $3,500,000 of promissory notes.

"During the period since 1933, the tax burden of the company has been substantially increased," Ranney declared. "Total taxes applicable to the year 1933, paid or still in litigation, amounted to $2,652,438. The 1939 provision for all taxes, exclusive of taxes applicable directly to the increase in rates now in litigation, was $4,740,654, an increase of $2,088,216. Of this increase, $1,334,700 represents social security taxes and Illinois public utility tax which were not in effect in 1933.

Taxes Add Bigger Burden.

"The substantial reduction in interest charges which has been accomplished in seven years has been more than offset by the imposition of new forms of taxes. The company accrued $5,418,414 in federal, state, and local taxes in 1939. This amount is equivalent to $8 a share on the company's outstanding stock, $1,176 per employé, and $6 per customer. While all of these taxes do not stay in Chicago, this amount is equivalent to the cost of operating Chicago's five largest high schools for one year."

Revenue derived from an increase in rates put into effect in February, 1938, amounted to $3,158,749 last year. Following deduction of taxes and other expense items totaling $713,321, net income of $2,445,429 was set aside pending final decision in the rate litigation.

Will Appeal Rate Ruling.

The company will appeal to the United States Supreme court in the rate fight, following the recent refusal of the Illinois Supreme court to grant a rehearing on the company's petition to continue present rates. Meanwhile, funds collected by the company in excess of the rates in effect before Feb. 4, 1938, are being impounded by court order.

Total assets of the company at the end of 1939 amounted to $194,866,157, including current assets of $17,159,953. Current liabilities amounted to $12,295,838.

Capital expenditures during 1939 amounted to $2,368,594 and the net increase in property accounts was $1,033,262, according to the statement. The company estimated about 20 miles of its distribution system will be affected by the city's subway project and will be required to spend about $1,000,000 to make way for the public improvement.

KROGER GROCERY NET PROFITS SET PEAK SINCE 1929

The Kroger Grocery & Baking company yesterday reported its net income in 1939 was 47 per cent larger than in 1938 and the best since 1929. Sales recorded a gain of 5 per cent over the preceding year.

The net profit was $5,514,597, equal to $3.02 a common share, against $3,741,569, or $2.05 a share, in 1938. Sales totaled $243,356,605, compared with $231,295,622.

Net incomes of companies reporting yesterday were:

Hewitt Rubber	$ 358,810	$ 83,352
Per share	2.13	.50
Kroger Grocery	5,514,597	3,741,569
Per share	3.02	2.05
Minn-Honeywell	2,158,581	1,003,289
Per share	3.27	1.41

Steel Output Dips Again to Rate of 71 Per Cent

The national steel output, again faced with slack buying, dropped another 5½ points last week to 71 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity. Moreover, the magazine Steel reported yesterday in its weekly survey, there is little evidence that the bottom of the decline has been reached.

Most of Major Markets Will Be Closed Today

Most of the major commodity and security markets in the United States will observe Lincoln's birthday by closing today. The Chicago live stock market and the New Orleans Cotton exchange, however, will remain open. Banks in most states, including Illinois and New York, will be closed.

Jewel Tea Company Learns Profit Sharing Aids Business

The Jewel Tea company, in a report yesterday on its 16 years of experience with employé profit-sharing plans, credited the system with contributing materially to the success and progress of the company in recent years.

Altho the company's steadily increased earnings since the adoption of a profit-sharing system in 1924 did not result wholly from the plan, the Barrington, Ill., food sales company said, "profit sharing in our case has proved itself a potent incentive as well as a fair reward from the production of new wealth, and has had substantial influence on the results of the operations of the company."

Started in 1924.

The first plan for direct and specific profit sharing with Jewel Tea employés was adopted by the board of directors in April, 1924. It was introduced in the midst of recovery after wartime excesses. The company had expanded so rapidly in the prewar years that the war itself and the postwar depression found it in a precarious position, the report said. In 1919 it suffered a loss of $1,847,000 on sales of $16,500,000. The following year it lost $2,183,000 on sales of $17,500,000. Stockholders were skeptical of the outlook.

The period between 1920 and 1923 brought drastic retrenchments, and thru heroic measures the company completed 1921 with a net profit of $321,457. Since then it has gained steadily except for a reasonable decline in profits during the depression.

Formerly Used Pay System.

The company originally shared profits thru payment of commission to its sales force above salaries. The plan adopted in 1924 extended profit sharing to the executive and supervisory force. Then for a time the general force of employés was given a share of profits in "wage extras."

The wage extras plan was dropped because it did not produce the desired results. In its place the Jewel Retirement Estates was made operative Dec. 24, 1938. It was created for the benefit of all employés, except those on the executive pay roll, who are 21 years old or more and who have one or more years of accumulated service.

Retirement estates are described by the company as a "combined profit-sharing and incentive for individual savings plan for retirement." Both employés and the company contribute to it. The executives' plan provides payments out of profits.

Comparison Shows Growth.

The report disclosed that in 1923 the company had 1,996 employés and had a sales volume of $12,554,875 and in 1924 a total of 71 persons participated in profit sharing. In 1939 it gave employment to 3,625, of whom 1,819 took part in profit sharing plans, and sales totaled $24,782,383.

In the eight years of the company's corporate history prior to the adoption of profit-sharing plans profits averaged $74,164 per year. In the last 16 years in which plans have been operative profits averaged $1,343,722 a year.

"Thus Jewel stockholders have seen their company in good health thru the entirety of the severe depression which caused many other companies to operate at a loss," the report said. "It is the firm conviction of the management that the principle of profit sharing is thoroly sound. It rests its claim on the fundamental that coöperative effort is more productive than individual and uncoördinated effort.'"

GRAIN MARKETS RECOVER PARTS OF RECENT LOSS

Grain prices moved higher last week on the Chicago Board of Trade, following a break which started late in December and continued until Feb. 1. During that period May wheat declined more than 14 cents a bushel and corn about 6½ cents. The rally of the last week resulted in a recovery of about 5½ cents in wheat and 2½ cents in corn.

Last week's range of prices follows:

Wheat.

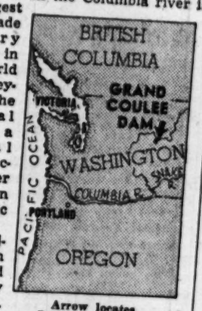
COULEE DAM KEY UNIT OF NEW DEAL YARDSTICK

Northwest to Garner Kilowatt Harvest.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 11.—Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia river is the largest man made masonry structure in the world and the keystone of the New Deal dream of a federal hydro-electric power empire in the Pacific northwest.



Arrow locates Grand Coulee dam.

The project, which was viewed today by Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, was started in 1933 as a low dam power project to cost $63,000,000, and was to be the power yardstick of the area. An allotment of PWA funds was used to start it.

Some two years later, however, the plan was changed. Instead of a low dam project the development now is a high dam power and irrigation undertaking.

Cost Leaps to $393,000,000.

The cost, as a result of the change, jumped to $393,000,000. When the project is finished and all of its power units are working, it will have a generating capacity of 1,890,000 kilowatts.

Population of the Pacific northwest area—Washington, Oregon and parts of Idaho and Montana—is 3,211,000, and the present per capita capacity of electric plants is almost double the national average.

When the Grand Coulee, Bonneville, and Willamette projects are completed this northwest area will have power capacity in excess of 4 million kilowatts, which approaches the 4½ million kilowatts which New York, with a population of 13 million, now has. Critics say Grand Coulee is an outstanding example of taxes paid by populous states for projects to give power to sparsely populated areas.

Capacity Triples Wilson Dam.

The monumental project dominates the landscape and sets new records for superlatives. It will be the world's largest in dam, power installation, hydro-electric units, pumps, and pumping stations. The dam will be 553 feet high and 500 feet thick at its base, tapering to 30 feet wide at the top. It will be three-fourths of a mile long. The dam will create a lake 150 miles long backing up into Canada.

The generators ultimately will develop three times as many kilowatts of capacity as the ultimate capacity of Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala., pride of Tennessee Valley authority.

About 1,200,000 acres of land in the Grand Coulee are to be reclaimed by irrigation. The largest pumping plant in the world is to pump water from the reservoir at the dam up into the Coulee. It means a hoist of some 300 feet. As an engineering proposition, Grand Coulee originally was planned to reclaim land which the glaciers abandoned eons ago.

Geologists say Grand Coulee owes its presence in the landscape to the glaciers of remote ages. The Columbia had eaten its way into a deep gorge when an ice cap, said to be

Glacier Chokes Back River.

This glacier choked back the river until it formed a great lake, which found a new outlet higher up the canyon wall. The river in this new channel rent a tremendous gulch known as Grand Coulee. This is a chasm about 50 miles long and several miles wide.

Then the ice sheet melted and the Columbia went back to its old bed, leaving the Grand Coulee high and dry, 600 feet above the level of the river at the site of the dam. This took place a million, maybe two million, years ago.

The idea of reclaiming the old river bed with its deposits of silt has been a dream of this region for three decades or more. It was agitated during the postarmistice period as a scheme for providing land for homesteads for war veterans. President Harding turned his thumbs down.

Cost Put at $186 an Acre.

So where the government with one hand has been renting land from farmers to take it out of production, with the other hand it has been building a project aimed to make 1,200,000 acres of arid lands bloom like the rose with irrigation.

Cost of the reclamation phase is figured at about $186.85 an acre in one government report. Some engineers place it higher.

The pumping plant which is to hoist water into the Grand Coulee will have the capacity to lift a total of 16,000 cubic feet of water per second when pumping against a 370 foot head.

To Be Finished in '41.

Irrigation cost, including that of the mammoth pumps, is placed at $198,000,000, which is expected to be largely repaid by settlers over a long period. Two dams across the Grand Coulee are to hold in a reservoir the water pumped up from the Columbia and there will be about 250 miles of main irrigation canal.

Grand Coulee dam will not be completed until the middle of 1941, and water will not be turned on any land until 1944.

It is planned to throw the land open in blocks, and one estimate is that 30 years will elapse before the lands are fully settled. Just now some Washington state newspapers appear to be reacting somewhat unfavorably to a New Deal suggestion that the reclaimed basin might be devoted to resettlement of the groups such as those decribed in John Steinbeck's book, "Grapes of Wrath."
